NEWSLETTER OF THE INNER TEMPLE
HILARY TERM 2008

Happy New Year and welcome back to the first 2008 issue of Inner View. This is to be a very exciting year for all of us, with a busy and varied programme of events celebrating the 400th anniversary of the grant of the Letters Patent to Inner and Middle Temple.

On the weekend of 19-20 January both Inns will open their doors to the public! The 2008 Temple Open Weekend will be offering a full programme of tours to the buildings and gardens of Inner and Middle Temple; organised visits to six sets of Chambers; mock trials at the Royal Courts of Justice and even some cameo Shakespeare performances. It will be a fun day out for all the family and we hope that you will tell as many people as possible about it.

Throughout the year there will be lectures and other events about which you will find information in this and forthcoming issues of InnerView, as well as on our website. Some of these are being booked up rapidly and, with limited tickets available, it is advisable to book as soon as possible. I would particularly draw your attention to the Pegasus Celebration on 17 July which will be a spectacular black-tie event to take place in the Inn's garden. It will include a special sit down dinner in a beautifully decorated marquee with live music and dancing, as well as entertainments all around the garden. Tickets will be on sale from January.

There are of course other annual events this term such as the Treasurer's Reception for Benchers to welcome the New Year (10 January) and the annual Easter Egg Hunt (16 March). We do hope that you will be able to attend these together with the Inn's other activities.

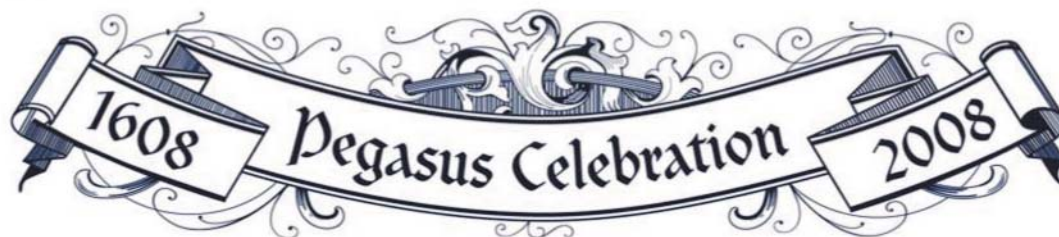

The Education & Training Department has a wide range of courses and schemes for students, pupils and practising barristers and they are always looking for practitioners to help meet the demand for ever growing training requirements. The need for more resources and volunteers is becoming more apparent with each passing day and arising from initiatives, such as the report of the Entry to the Bar -Neuberger- Working Party. The Inn encourages everyone to consider giving some of their valuable time to help maintain the high standards of its training programme.

FROM THE TREASURER

Everyone knows now that 2008 is a year of celebration. Thanks to dedicated and expert direction by Kenneth Richardson, the 2008 Festival Director; the prodigious fundraising by Penny Jonas, in particular, but not exclusively, on behalf of the Temple Music Foundation; and to sustained effort by a very large number of members and staff of both Inner Temple and Middle Temple, there is a spectacular programme of Festival events. Everyone I have spoken to is impressed by the first of three Festival brochures, which takes us through to the end of May. Inner Temple has its own events and projects, including the now published and beautifully produced commemorative book “Inner Temple: A Community of Communities”, the Pegasus Celebration in the Garden on 17 July 2008, the Inner Temple law prize and the Royal Horticultural Society’s September show in our Garden.

But I see my challenge, as the person whose enormous and humbling privilege it is to be Treasurer of the Inn in this anniversary year, as going well beyond celebration. The 1608 charter obliges us to use our land and concentrate our effort to accommodate, educate and nurture those studying and following the profession of law, that is, first and foremost, the students and barrister members of the Inn. In a sentence, our charter obliges us to maintain and improve our property in order to continue to have the income to pay for student scholarships, Education and Training, the Library, the House, the Garden and all other departments of the Inn. We must work in a modern and progressive way. Celebration must not detract from the necessary continuance and improvement of the core business and obligation of the Inn. Behind the celebration is regeneration and rededication for the future.

My experience as Reader has taught me of the enormous fund of voluntary effort which Benchers, barrister members of the Inn and students, in and out of London and overseas, devote to achieving the performance of the Inn’s functions and obligations. This is matched by the dedication and good humoured effort of all our staff. Without all this, the Inn could not function. All those who benefit are hugely grateful.

I would like to end this short introduction to 2008 by expressing on behalf of everyone profound thanks to Stephen Williamson QC, the Treasurer for 2007, and to his wife, Pauline. Stephen had a particularly difficult first half of the year, in no sense of his own choosing, but this did not diminish in any way his devotion to the Inn. He has persevered with the continuing intractable problem of Serjeants’ Inn with good judgment. He has performed all aspects of the Treasurer’s functions effectively and with immense good humour. Pauline’s support to him has been invaluable. We are truly grateful to both of them.

THE INNER TEMPLE: A COMMUNITY OF COMMUNITIES

The year 2008 sees the 400th anniversary of the Letters Patent granted to the Honourable Societies of the Inner & Middle Temple by James I. The Inner Temple has published this book as a celebration of that rich and diverse history. From its earliest beginnings to the survival of its splendid buildings and traditions, despite the ravages of time and Second World War bombing, the Inner Temple certainly has a great deal to celebrate. The illustrations illuminate the splendour of the place as it is now, whilst also recalling past glories. Above all, this is a book about a community, past and present.

£45 (plus P&P if bought on line) and are available from the Treasury Office or from the Inn Store, www.innertemple.org.uk

OPENING EVENT OF THE TEMPLE FESTIVAL: OPEN WEEKEND 19 AND 20 JANUARY 2008

INNER & MIDDLE TEMPLE OPEN THEIR DOORS

Our year of Royal Charter celebrations begins with an Open Weekend organised jointly by the Inner and Middle Temple. Over the weekend of the 19 to 20 January both Inns will open their doors to welcome members of the public. Visitors will be able to look round the Halls, Treasury Buildings, Libraries and Gardens of both Inns. A number of sets of Chambers will also be open to visitors.

A variety of activities will take place in the Inn over the weekend. The Shakespeare Schools Festival will be offering short performances in the Benchers' rooms, LAMDA will provide dramatic interludes and short talks will be given by some of our distinguished Benchers. On the Sunday, visitors will be able to have lunch in Inner Temple Hall.

In the Temple Church there will be organ recitals, talks on the Knights Templar and The Da Vinci Code and Choral Mattins on Sunday.

There will be events in the Gardens and an exhibition of historical manuscripts and archives in the Inner Temple Library.

Four courts have been made available in the Royal Courts of Justice to enable visitors to experience advocacy training, mock trials and a children's court, and to participate in Question and Answer sessions organised by the Advocacy and Training Departments of the two Inns.

This being the first major event of the year, it is of vital importance that it is a resounding success. We are most grateful to those Benchers, Members of Hall and Students who have offered to assist over the weekend. You can help us further by publicising the event far and wide.

COMMONWEALTH LAW CONFERENCE 2007

MASTER DINGEMANS

On 10 – 13 September 2007 the 15th Commonwealth Law Conference took place at the Kenyatta Conference Centre in Nairobi, Kenya. There were about 1,500 delegates from around the Commonwealth. Not surprisingly the majority of delegates were from Africa, but the United Kingdom came a credible 4th in terms of delegate numbers. There were members of Inner Temple from various jurisdictions who were there.

The Commonwealth Law Conference is organised every two years by the Commonwealth Lawyers' Association. It provides an opportunity for lawyers from around the commonwealth, who all share the common law and who almost all share an official Court language of English, to meet. Over the 4 days there were seminars covering every legal topic imaginable, from 'constitutional reform' to 'contemporary issues in international trade law' (for which one of the speakers was Lord Mance), and from 'Biomedicine – legal and ethical issues' (speakers included Mr Justice Michael Kirby of the High Court of Australia) to 'cultural and religious rights within the secular state' (speakers included Soli Sorabjee, former A-G of India). Keynote speakers included Lord Phillips and Professor Wangari Maathai (Nobel laureate). The conference was opened by the President of Kenya, Hon. Mwai Kibaki and the photo shows the band that accompanied him.

Every evening there was entertainment, culminating in a dinner in a massive tent (for about 2,000 people) in the Nairobi National Park. There were armed guards around the tent to keep the lions out, or perhaps it was to keep the lawyers in! The next conference will be in April 2009 in Hong Kong.

Master Dingemans is a member of the Executive Committee of the Commonwealth Lawyers Association. Its 2008 conference will be in Jamaica and Hong Kong in 2009

VISIT TO MALAYSIA

MASTER STEPHEN WILLIAMSON AND MRS PAULINE WILLIAMSON

We arrived at Kuala Lumpur airport to be greeted by Justice Dato' James Foong, Appeal Court Judge and now Deputy President of the Malaysian Inner Temple Alumni Association; Justice Datuk Sulong Matjeraie newly appointed from the High Court Bench in Sabah to the Appeal Court; S Radhakrishnan (Radha), Secretary of the MITAA and Datuk N Chandran, Hon Treasurer of the MITAA.

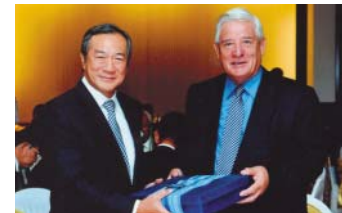

On the first night we were guests at a restaurant in one on the Petronas Towers and allowed onto the Sky Bridge, and the following night we were entertained at a restaurant in the Shangri-La Hotel. On both occasions we were in the presence of eminent practitioners who all seemed keen to see the continuance of the Common Law of Malaysia. The Alumni Association dinner held on Saturday 8 September was quite formal, but again became an expression of warmth towards the Inn. My speech included a repeat of the assurance that Deferral of Call will not happen: this was greeted with spontaneous applause. Many photographs were taken!

We met the partners of a major law firm Skrine. We also met the President of the Malaysian Bar Council. In both these meetings we were flattered that they spoke openly about matters of concern to them in the law of their country. We also had a press interview for a Sunday newspaper. Before leaving Kuala Lumpur we were honoured by a dinner hosted by the British High Commissioner at his residence. Eminent practitioners were present including Karpal Singh. The High Commissioner was warm, friendly and very adept at directing table conversation in an appropriate direction. It was indeed an honour to be with him and his wife Jenny.

Leaving our Hotel at 4.30am we arrived in Kota Kinabalu to be greeted by Datuk Seri Panglima Dr Herman J Luping JP and the press.

The journalist had prepared well and it gave me good exposure in the Wednesday paper and the Sunday Times after the Sabah Law Association Dinner.

Our visit to the British Council in Kota Kinabalu was most enlightening and could lead to further initiatives. We were entertained to a dinner hosted by Joseph Kurup with other Inner Templars and the Attorney General. We travelled across Sabah, slept overnight on a oil rig, saw Orang-Utang, Proboscis monkeys and visited the Agnes Keith House and The English Tea House.

On Friday 14 September at the Sabah Law Association Dinner a large notice announced "Farewell to Justice Datuk Sulong Matjeraie welcome to Stephen Williamson QC". I could not resist! After speeches the evening was devoted to Karaoke. So it had to be On Ilkley Moor "baht at". We were looked after by Dr Luping JP from the moment we stepped off the plane in Kota Kinabalu until the moment he put us back on the plane to come home.

ENTRY TO THE BAR – NEUBERGER – WORKING PARTY REPORT

YESHIM HARRIS, DEPUTY SUB-TREASURER

November 2007 saw the publication of the Entry to the Bar Working Party Report. This group was set up by the Bar Council in the Autumn of 2006 to develop proposals for improving funding and information, in order to ensure that the most able students have access to the Bar as a career, regardless of means or background. It was chaired by The Rt Hon Lord Neuberger of Abbotsbury and had a membership of over 30, comprising a mix of members of the independent and employed Bar, the judiciary, representatives of diversity groups, academics, the BSB and the Inns*.

The report makes 57 specific recommendations all of which address diversity and inclusivity issues within the Bar. The initiatives range from proposals targeting students at schools, universities and the BVC, to strategies covering pupillage and tenancy at the Bar.

The Bar Council is now setting up a successor group to organise and monitor the implementation of the report's recommendations over the next few years. Further details of the report can be found on the Bar Council's website (www.barcouncil.org.uk) in the 'News' section.

SIXTY YEARS ON – A UNIQUE OCCASION

The reception in the Temple Church on 29 November, to honour Master Le Quesne on the 60th anniversary of his Call, hosted by the Treasurer and attended by a multitude of the great and the good, was almost certainly a unique occasion.

Godfray's father had been called by the Inner Temple in 1912, he took Silk in 1925 and was elected a Bencher in 1934. Godfray was called in 1947, took Silk in 1962, and became a Bencher in 1969.

After school at Shrewsbury he went up to Exeter College, Oxford, in 1942. It was his father's old college, both were scholars, both read "Mods" and "Greats", both became President of the Union – his father in 1907, Godfray in 1943 – like father, like son.

He did his pupillage with Frank Gahan QC, who had been a pupil to his father and who had an extensive Privy Council practice which Godfray "devilled" when he was invited to stay on as a tenant and which he largely inherited when Gahan took Silk.

Godfray's own first appearance in the Privy Council was almost exactly 60 years ago at the end of February 1948. It is reported that in the 1948 Appeal Case Reports at page 351, Godfray was led by his father and his pupil master and was paid a fee of 5 and 5 (guineas).

His judicial career began in 1963 when he was appointed a Deputy Chairman of Kesteven, Quarter Sessions, and after the abolition of Quarter Sessions in 1971, he continued to sit as a Recorder in Lincoln until the early nineties. In 1964 he began sitting as a Judge of the Court of Appeal for both Jersey and Guernsey – appointments he held for more than 30 years. For 12 of those years he was the full-time Chairman of the Monopolies and Mergers Commission.

He returned to private practice in 1984 working as before very largely in the Privy Council. In 1988 he became Reader of the Inner Temple and in 1989 its Treasurer.

The November reception was preceded by a magnificent organ recital by Ian le Grice culminating in a piano duet, in which Godfray joined, of "The Teddy Bears Picnic"! In his speech the Treasurer reminded us of events in 1947, including the near arctic conditions of the early months. In his reply Godfray spoke eloquently and movingly of the peace and quiet of the Temple, of the beauty of its buildings and of the many friendships he had made there over six decades. It was indeed a unique occasion – and so is the man we were honouring.

PEGASUS SCHOLARSHIPS

This summer we welcomed five Commonwealth Scholars who had just completed their LLM degrees at Cambridge. The scholars from Australia, Guyana, Trinidad and Malawi had an enjoyable stay in various chambers and were very enthusiastic about their court visits including visits to the Edinburgh and Belfast courts.

This year we also welcomed two avocats from the Paris Bar. This exchange programme happens every summer and also allows young barristers to spend the month of September in Paris. HHJ Brooke QC (of Gray's Inn) has organised this for some years and it is now open to members of all Inns. The French avocats conducted a mock trial at the RCJ, using some of our BVC students as the accused and witnesses - the four barristers we are sending to Paris will do a mock trial in French.

Although the closing date for outgoing Pegasus scholarships has passed for 2008, please think about applying for 2009 if you are a tenant (or employed barrister) of under five years' Call. You could spend six to twelve weeks in another jurisdiction seeing how their legal system works as well as making new friends and (possibly) escaping the worst of the British weather.

MASTER FALCONER PORTRAIT

At last November's Private Guest Night, the Inner Temple unveiled the latest addition to its collection, a portrait in oil of The Rt Hon The Lord Falconer of Thornton who retired as Lord Chancellor in 2007.

Commissioned in 2006, it is painted by Angela Reilly, who won 3rd Prize in the 2006 BP Portrait Prize at the National Portrait. She has recently exhibited at ROLLO Contemporary Art and will be part of a group exhibition in January 2008.

The portrait captures Lord Falconer, a Master of the Bench, in a formal setting, yet clearly in a relaxed mood.

LIBRARY NEWS

HALSBURY'S AWARDS

In October last year the Inner Temple Library was presented with a Halsbury's Award for Best Legal Information Service (Non-Commercial Sector). The Halsbury's Awards are sponsored by LexisNexis and the British and Irish Association of Law Librarians to "celebrate and reward the dedicated work and outstanding service conducted by legal information services teams." The Library was nominated because it was felt that over the past few years the team has worked hard to improve services to barristers, pupils and students, based in London and throughout the UK. New initiatives have included a current awareness weblog, an electronic newsletter, legal research FAQs and a virtual tour. The AccessToLaw gateway site was acknowledged to be a very useful research tool. The Library's active involvement in the Bar Librarians Group, which encourages dialogue between the Inn Libraries, chambers' libraries and legal publishers, was also mentioned.

WEBLOG DEVELOPMENTS

The Library's legal news weblog continues to attract very favourable comment. The service has recently been developed further and a widget is now available which allows information from the blog to be displayed on other individuals' or organisations' web sites. A version of the blog for mobiles is also available. For more information email smclaren@innertemple.org.uk

OPEN WEEKEND

As part of the 2008 festivities, the Library will be opening from 11am to 4pm on 19-20 January. Visitors will have the opportunity to view displays of the Inn's manuscript treasures and material from the archives, as well as photographs covering different periods of the Inn's history, including World War II.

A LIMITED EDITION PRINT OF THE INNER TEMPLE

The limited edition print of the Inner Temple from Michael Aubrey's original painting owned by the Inn, was first published in 1998. The print depicts a view of King's Bench Walk on a quiet summer's afternoon, evoking a sense of warmth and tranquillity. It has been very well received and adorns the walls of many sets of chambers and homes.

An unusual aspect of the print is that it is printed full size, on actual watercolour paper, a difficult process but one which results in the print being almost indistinguishable from the original painting.

Royalties from sales of the print are used by the Inn for educational purposes, and we have already benefited greatly from this arrangement.

The edition was strictly limited to 350 and some copies are still available. You can order prints through the Inn Store online at www.innertemple.org.uk

Alternatively, the prints can be ordered directly on line from the Limited Edition Prints Gallery on the artist's website which is www.michaelaubrey.co.uk
