Judges look at the City of London's 1297 Magna Carta as it travels through the City of London as part of the Lord Mayor's Show.

January is a time for looking forward and looking back: forward to a year which will be dominated by the 800th anniversary of the sealing of Magna Carta by King John in June 1215; backward to a year of achievement in which the Inn made solid progress in a number of important areas and in which the foundations for this year's celebrations were laid. For the last twelve months Master Tomlinson has guided our affairs with a firm but gentle touch, with charm and quiet assurance. It has been my pleasure to observe him at work and to learn from him. Of the many notable successes of his year as Treasurer, the visit to Washington D.C. of the Temple Church choir to take part in the opening of the Magna Carta exhibition at the Library of Congress must take pride of place. The choir, who also gave a concert in the United States Supreme Court, impressed everyone with the superb quality of their singing. The tour was an unqualified success and much enjoyed by boys and choirmen alike.

For those fortunate enough to accompany the choir events in Washington provided a fitting prelude to Magna Carta year, while here at home the celebrations began in November with a Magna Carta amity dinner following a service of Choral Evensong at which the Dean of Westminster preached. This year also sees the 800th anniversary of the City charter, issued from the Temple in May 1215, by which the king gave the City the freedom to elect its own Lord Mayor. It is therefore a particularly happy coincidence that the Master of the Temple is serving as chaplain to the present Lord Mayor and will be present in a dual capacity when he and the City dignitaries visit the Temple in May to celebrate their own charter.

I hope that as many members of the Inn as possible will take part in the events being organised to commemorate the sealing of Magna Carta. They include a series of lectures organised by the four Inns to take place between February and November, a special Magna Carta Bar Guest Night in June and an Open Weekend in September, during which we shall invite members of the public to visit the Temple to see for themselves how modern lawyers strive to preserve the rule of law in our own time.

The emphasis on Magna Carta may appear to involve more looking backward than forward, but the Inn is constantly striving to ensure that it is able to meet the challenges of the future. During his time as Treasurer Master Tomlinson took the far-sighted step of commissioning a strategic review to assess the needs of the Inn and its members over the next twenty-five years. We need to ensure that we are capable of providing the services which our members need in the changing conditions of the modern world. It is likely that there will be an increasing need for access to legal materials in electronic form and perhaps also for temporary working accommodation for members based outside London. These are two areas in which we hope that the review will provide a sound basis for moving forward.

As befits a new year, a new Bar Liaison Committee has been elected and will, I hope, receive strong support from members of Hall. During the past year the BLC has done much valuable work, in particular in responding to consultations on legal aid reform and various proposals from the Bar Standards Board. The BLC provides members of Hall with an important channel of communication on all aspects of the running of the Inn and I would encourage everyone to help it in voicing the views of members of Hall on the Inn's committees.

One of my goals during the coming year is to ensure that all members of the Inn have an opportunity to participate fully in the life of the Inn as well as in the special events celebrating Magna Carta. The Reader is planning to arrange a series of circuit dinners at convenient locations around the country, including a reception for the European Circuit which will take place at the Inn. These dinners, which will be linked to qualifying sessions, are designed to foster closer ties between the Inn and its members outside London.

Students remain an essential part of the Inn's membership because they represent the future of the profession. I look forward to meeting our current students during the coming year and to presenting them with their Call certificates which, for one year only, will carry a new design to commemorate the 800th anniversary of Magna Carta.

This brings me full circle. The celebrations have already begun. I hope that this year will be memorable for the Inn and for every one of its members.

The traditional Burns Night Supper returns to the Hall of the Inner Temple on Friday 30 January 2015. It has become traditional for ITSA to host this celebration and it is undoubtedly the highlight of the Hilary Term. Last year we saw the event at its most successful, with over 220 guests.

This year the evening will be commenced with drinks, followed by a three-course supper interspersed with traditional entertainment including readings, speeches and poems. Supper will be concluded with the opportunity for guests to take part in a ceilidh- to varying degrees of flare and flamboyance!

Burns Night at Inner Temple is always a wonderful evening and this year's event promises to be just as spectacular. A night of food, drink and dancing this is certainly not one to be missed.

INN TO SOFIA 10-12 OCTOBER AND GIBRALTAR 28-30 NOVEMBER

The Treasurer recently led a delegation from the Inn to Gibraltar for the official launch of our Alumni association there. Master Caruana, formerly Chief Minister, hosted the trip which included a presentation on careers at the Bar to A level law students.

Earlier, the Sub Treasurer led a team of advocacy trainers on our first ever goodwill visit to Sofia, Bulgaria. This was organised in co operation with The British Law Centre www.britishlawcentre.co.uk and which offers courses on English law at a number of universities in Central Europe. An intensive 48 hours included a lecture on ethics to members of the local Bar, a demonstration case to 150 law students at Sofia University and a day of advocacy training sessions.

JUDGES OF TOMORROW – THEY LOOK LIKE YOU!

RECENT EVENTS

On the 19 November 2014, the School of Law at the University of Leeds hosted an event for black and minority ethnic legal professionals interested in a career in the judiciary. The event, entitled, Judges of Tomorrow – they look like you! was a collaboration between the University, Inner and Middle Temples, the Judicial Office and the Leeds Employment Tribunal. Working together, we attracted over 100 participants from as far afield as London and Blackpool. Solicitors, barristers, legal academics, CILEX executives and students listened to The Rt Hon Lady Justice Macur of the Court of Appeal, District Judges Tanweer Ikram and Sunita Mason talk about their pathway to the judiciary. This was then augmented with practical advice from Sarah Gane of the Judicial Appointments Commission (JAC).

As explained by HH Judge Marc Dight, Lead Diversity and Community Relations Judge, the event was conceived as a celebration of and reflection upon the Race Relations Act 1965. This Act established the principle of discrimination in law and paved the way for subsequent equality statutes in England and

From top, HH Judge Marc Dight, Lead Diversity and Community Relations Judge, Lady Justice Macur of the Court of Appeal, and District Judge Tanweer Ikram, Wales. As he said, the approach to its 50th anniversary in 2015 is a time to celebrate progress but also to think about what remains to be achieved, such as diversity in the judiciary.

The audience was treated to three candid and engaging presentations outlining personal pathways into a judicial career. All three judges were unequivocal in their enthusiasm and dedication to the role. LJ Macur spoke with clarity about the circumstances of her entry prior to the creation of the JAC. She stressed to those present the crucial first step: to change self-perception. She then explored the steps that took her beyond her ‘comfort zones’ into the judiciary and her progression to the Court of Appeal. Alongside the reminder that a judicial career was not for everybody, she encouraged those present to investigate the options and in particular consider in which area they would like to perform judicial duties, or 'sit.'

LJ Macur was followed by DJ Tan Ikram, a proud graduate of Wolverhampton Polytechnic who first trained for the Bar and then as a solicitor. He reminded us that it was not only self-perception but the low perception of others (including academic 'advisors') that may have to be overcome. His presentation also highlighted the variety of roles performed by sitting judges and the value of these roles. His path to District Judge and Deputy Lead Community and Diversity Judge incorporates almost two decades as a practitioner and a spell as a Parking Adjudicator.

This was re-iterated by District Judge Sunita Mason CBE, whose path to her current post includes three years working as an Independent Advisor to the Home Secretary, producing reports and recommendations for Ministers in Westminster and Stormont. Her varied experience provided her with the practical skills to withstand the challenging application process. Her strong advice was that any serious candidate should start a 'Competence Diary' to ensure they have the evidence to make the strongest impression on the application form, and succeed in the role play exercises that are part of the appointment process.

Sarah Gane from the JAC went through the practicalities of the procedure. She brought home a stark reality: competition is high, with between 8-20 applications being received for every post in some competitions. However, the varied background of the panel judges and those present during the networking demonstrates that the process is not one of insurmountable obstacles. Success is possible and dependent, as Kirstie Allsop might say, on one thing – 'Preparation! Preparation! Preparation!'

After these insightful presentations, delegates were then able to spend two hours of lively networking and in one-to-one discussions with the presenters and a number of other judges. The time flew by and it was 9pm before the last guest left. All were armed with valuable advice and information making clear not only the challenges of a judicial position but also the satisfaction and fulfilment that the job can bring.

HISTORY SOCIETY LECTURES 2015

WHY SHYLOCK LOSES HIS CASE TUESDAY 3 MARCH 2015

Our second lecture of the year will be delivered by Professor Quentin Skinner, Barber Beaumont Professor of the Humanities at Queen Mary, University of London, on the 3 March 2015 entitled Why Shylock Loses his Case. It will examine the use of judicial rhetoric in Shakespeare.

According to classical and Renaissance theories of forensic rhetoric, there are three main types of judicial cause, the honest, the foul and the strange. Portia and the Duke of Venice attempt to persuade Shylock at the outset of the trial in The Merchant of Venice that his cause is 'strange'. He makes it clear that he regards it as 'honest'. Professor Skinner will discuss Shakespeare's close knowledge of legal rhetoric, and explain how the trial hangs on the distinctions between three types of cause coniecturalis, iuridicalis and legalis. The traditional view is that Shylock's case fails when Portia challenges him to extract a pound of flesh without spilling any blood. Professor Skinner will demonstrate that the true crux of the case lies elsewhere.

The lecture will be followed by a Q&A session. An informal supper will also be available for those who wish to continue the discussion afterwards.

A symposium associated with this event will be held on the 4 March at Queen Mary College and all those attending this lecture will be most welcome.

Tickets will be on sale from January 2015

ARCHIVES SIR STEPHEN LUSHINGTON (1782-1873) ANTI-SLAVERY CAMPAIGNER AND ABOLITIONIST

This year marks the 175th anniversary since the Anti-Slavery Society was founded in 1839, it continues today as Anti-Slavery International, making it the oldest international human rights organisation in the world. One member of this Inn was involved in its foundation - Stephen Lushington - who was called to the Bar here in 1806. As well as becoming a distinguished judge of the Consistory Court of London, the Court of Admiralty and the Court of Arches and president of Doctors Commons, he was also an MP from 1806-8 and 1820-41 and was constantly active in and out of Parliament in the cause of anti-slavery. It was he who was responsible for an Act in 1824 which sought to abolish the transfer of slaves between British colonies, and he worked closely with Wilberforce's successor as leader of the anti-slavery movement, T.F. Buxton to secure the Emancipation Act in 1833, which abolished slavery throughout the British Empire.

On the monument to emancipation erected in 1866 in the Victoria Memorial Gardens his name is mentioned along with those of Wilberforce, Clarkson, Macaulay, and Brougham. Upon his death the former Dean of Westminster A.P. Stanley paid tribute to a "venerable judge whose career was fired from first to last by a generous sympathy with human suffering, by noble indignation against wrong [and] by a firm persuasion of the indissoluble bond between what was the highest in religion and what was greatest in morality."

SEMINAR FOR SCHOOL STUDENTS

On 7 November 2014, the Inn welcomed over 100 year 12/13 school students from 40 state schools in Greater London to take part in the sixth annual Careers Open Day. The seminar is part of the Inn's larger Schools Project, featuring events and workshops throughout the year for state school students. These events aim to increase school students' knowledge of what is involved in pursuing a career at the Bar, dispel misconceptions about the Bar and to raise aspirations to the professions generally.

The Education & Training Department would like to thank all those who helped at the event, including Master O'Toole who led the activities and panellists Deborah Bryan (Thomas Bingham Chambers), Raza Halim (Garden Court Chambers), Simon Heptonstall (CPS), Simon Malynicz (3 New Square) and Tom Weisselberg QC (Blackstone Chambers).

As part of our work with schools the Inn also works with the Sutton Trust supporting their Pathways to Law programme. The first Pathways to Law event took place on 26 November 2014. There are several other events scheduled for the Inn's schools outreach work during the year, including 18 March 2015.

If you would like to volunteer to help out at one of these events we would be delighted to hear from you. Please contact Struan Campbell

ANNUAL BAR CONFERENCE

As with previous years, the Inner Temple was a proud sponsor of the 2014 Annual Bar Conference. Representatives of the Inner Temple attended the conference on 8 November. The theme of this year's conference was "Celebrating Excellence". The day was a success and allowed the Inn to connect with members. Inner Temple benchers and members were well represented at the conference.

INNER TEMPLE BUILDING STRONG LINKS WITH UNIVERSITIES

Martha Maher addresses students attending the Bristol presentation

PRESENTATIONS & RECEPTIONS

Five university events for over 600 students took place in October and November. At presentations held in London, Cambridge, Oxford, Newcastle and Bristol, students heard from a panel of speakers about life as a barrister in a variety of practices. These panel discussions were chaired by Master Reader, Master Toulson, Master Slade, Master Milford and Judge Patrick respectively. Each presentation was followed by a question and answer session and drinks reception where attendees were able to gain an insight into training, qualifying and life at the Bar.

In addition, the Inn supported a debate in Liverpool on 4 November with Liverpool John Moores University, Edward Moss and David Birrell acted as mentors to the finalists, with Master Maddison acting as the judge.

Other regional receptions are being organised across the UK in the New Year. Feedback from students who attended the events has been overwhelmingly positive. We would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who kindly volunteered to speak at the presentations and attend the receptions.

LAW FAIRS

Over the Michaelmas term, Inner Temple has been represented at 27 Law and Careers Fairs throughout England and Wales. Hundreds of university students have had the opportunity to speak to members of staff from E&T about pursuing a career at the Bar, Inner Temple's scholarships and education programmes and life at the Inn.

DINNER TO THE UNIVERSITIES

The Inn will be holding its annual Dinner to the Universities on 10 March 2015. The aim of the dinner is to celebrate the work of university Bar societies and establish links with undergraduates who are interested and capable of joining the Bar from universities across England and Wales. If you are interested in attending, please contact Struan Campbell.

DINNERS FOR LEGAL ACADEMICS

The Inn holds small dinners for legal academics from across the country throughout the year. The aim of these dinners is to build close relationships with academics from universities in England and Wales and provide information on the profession that they can pass on to their students. If you are interested in attending one of these dinners, please contact Struan Campbell.

EDUCATION & TRAINING DEPARTMENT

THE NEW BPTC YEAR

The Inn welcomed 309 new BPTC students to the Inn this autumn from BPTC providers across the country. Their programme of Qualifying Sessions began with two Introductory Evenings at the Inn where students heard from senior members of the Inn about the role of the Inn in their education and training and the opportunities available to them in terms of Qualifying Sessions as well as support schemes and Student Societies. Several Qualifying Sessions have already taken place during the Michaelmas Term. Two BPTC Advocacy Days were held in October and November allowing students to practise their burgeoning advocacy skills.

Lectures were given by Professor Robert Stevens on Contract Interpretation: What it Says on the Tin and Master Sedley on The Royal Prerogative: Then and Now.

Several Dining Night Qualifying Sessions have taken place where students have dined with senior members of the Inn and heard legal talks from, amongst others, Simon Hughes MP on Challenges and Opportunities in Family Justice, Sheila Proudlock, HM Courts & Tribunals Service Delivery Director for the London Region and Dr David Lowe, one of the Inn's Academic Fellows on Miranda and Schedule 7 Terrorism Act 2000: Are Journalists now terrorists?

A presentational skills course was held in October where students were taught presentational skills techniques by accredited trainers from the London Academy of Music and Dramatic Art (LAMDA).

At the time of writing, students are about to embark on the first of three student residential conference weekends. The December Cumberland Lodge weekend, entitled Who Cares? Care Proceedings and the Family Courts, will bring together speakers including Master Peter Jackson, Uma Mehta (Chief Lawyer, Corporate Law and Community Services Team, London Borough of Islington), P J Lewis (Social worker, Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea), William Tyler QC (36 Bedford Row), and Dorothy Pottinger (Children's Guardian, Cafcass).

The Education & Training Department would like to thank all those members who have kindly assisted with the above Qualifying Sessions and is looking forward to a busy programme of events / activities in 2015. If any member would be interested in giving a talk on a legal topic at a Dining Night Qualifying Session, please contact Fiona Fulton.

If any member on circuit would be interested in helping students at BPTC providers on circuit organise local Qualifying Sessions, please contact Paul Clark.

POLICE LIAISON SCHEME 2014/15: PROMOTING GOOD RELATIONS BETWEEN THE BAR AND THE POLICE SERVICE

The Police Liaison Scheme is a popular scheme for student members which aims to foster good relations between the police and the Bar and Judiciary. Bar students participating in this year's scheme have begun their visits to London Police Stations. Students have the opportunity to accompany police officers either on patrol, where they can learn about police station procedures and the way in which incidents are dealt with, or in the CID departments at various police stations. It is a reciprocal scheme and events are provided for police officers during the year, most notably a mock trial in February. To get involved, or for further information about the scheme, please email Struan Campbell.

MOCK INTERVIEW SCHEME

The Mock Interview Scheme aims to help students develop their interview technique and build up confidence prior to pupillage interviews. This scheme is at its busiest in April-

June and we are therefore seeking barristers to help out with the scheme. If you are interested in participating as an interviewing barrister, please contact Struan Campbell.

BPTC SCHOLARSHIP INTERVIEWS – REQUEST FOR VOLUNTEERS

Since 2008 the Inn has interviewed every candidate who has applied for an Inn scholarship. We would like to continue this policy in 2015 and as such we urgently need volunteers to help interview for the BPTC awards this academic year as we have received over 370 applications. The interviews will be held on Saturdays 7 and 14 March 2015. You should be over five years' Call and be in self-employed practice or work as an employed barrister. If you are willing to help please contact Eamonn O'Reilly to discuss what is involved more fully.

EDUCATION DAY

An Education Day will be held on Monday 16 February 2015. This event is aimed exclusively at students studying the BPTC at institutions outside London. Programmes have previously involved talks with practitioners, mock trials, advocacy, discussion groups, demonstration cases and lectures given by leading legal practitioners. This is a great opportunity for students to become more engaged with the Inn and to meet and work with senior members. The Education Day is followed by a Lecture Night held on the same day. Full attendance at the day is worth two Qualifying Sessions. Students at providers outside of London are strongly recommended to attend this session, the date of which has been agreed in advance with BPTC providers.

Places can be booked via the online booking website, <https://innerqualifyingsessions.org.uk> For more information please contact Kerry Upham.

BARRISTERS WE NEED YOUR HELP

If any barristers would be willing to lend a hand at the Education Day on this date, please contact Kerry Upham.

ATTENTION INNER TEMPLE PUPILS!

If you have not yet notified the Inn of your pupillage, please do so immediately as you will need to complete the compulsory advocacy course which begins in January 2015!

Failure to do so will result in you not being issued with a practising certificate.

NEW PRACTITIONERS' ADVOCACY & ETHICS COURSES 2015

The Inn is running two residential NP Advocacy courses at Wotton House in Dorking on 17-19 April and 5-7 June 2015. The weekends will be accredited for the full requirement of CPD advocacy hours for NPs. This year the Ethics element of the training will take place separately, with two evening sessions being held at the Inn, on 25 March and 15 June, with each session providing the full requirement of CPD ethics hours. The course costs £250 which covers travel, accommodation, meals and all training. Booking forms will be available from the start of January 2015, or for further information please contact David Miller.

ACADEMIC FELLOWS 2014-2017

The Inn is delighted to welcome a further four outstanding legal academics elected as Academic Fellows of the Inn. Their appointment was celebrated at the Inn on 10 November 2014 following Master Sedley's lecture on The Royal Prerogative: Then and Now.

DR YVONNE MCDERMOTT is a Lecturer in Law at Bangor University and is the School of Law's Director of Teaching and Learning as well as joint Director of the Bangor Centre for International Law.

Dr McDermott's research includes international criminal law, international criminal procedure, human rights and the law of evidence. She has a particular interest in fair trial rights and has recently been contracted by the Organisation for Security and Co-Operation in Europe to train judges and lawyers in Tbilisi, Georgia, on the right to a fair trial.

Having co-edited The Ashgate Research Companion to International Criminal Law: Critical Perspectives and The Challenge of Human Rights: Past, Present and Future, Dr McDermott has also published a number of chapters and journal articles. Her first monograph, Fairness in International Criminal Trials, will be published by Oxford University Press in early 2015.

Dr McDermott joined Bangor University in 2011 from the Irish Centre of Human Rights, National University of Ireland, Galway, where she completed her international criminal law thesis. Her thesis was awarded the 'special mention' by the jury of the René Cassin Thesis Prize 2014.

SHAZIA CHOUDHRY is Reader in Law at Queen Mary, University of London. Shazia is currently teaching family law at Queen Mary. Shazia's research interests focus on the interface between family law and human rights. A particular area of interest includes the impact of the Human Rights Act and European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR) on forced marriage, honour based violence and domestic violence in general.

Shazia has published two books including her monograph (with Professor Jonathan Herring), European Human Rights and Family Law, which was shortlisted for the Inner Temple Main Book Prize in 2011.

Shazia is a qualified solicitor and previously practised family law within the legal aid sector. She has also undertaken a number of visiting research posts including at Emory Law School, USA, the European University Institute, Italy and the Max Planck Institute, Hamburg, Germany. She is currently Special Adviser to the Joint Parliamentary Committee on Human Rights Inquiry into Violence Against Women.

DR COLIN KING joined the University of Manchester in September 2012. Prior to that, he was Lecturer in Criminal Law and Evidence at the University of Leeds (2009 - 2012) and Director of the University of Leeds Innocence Project. His teaching is in the areas of: Criminal Law; Criminal Evidence; and Financial Crime. His research focuses on civil recovery (NCB forfeiture), particularly in Ireland, the UK, the EU, and with reference to the ECHR.

He is co-editor of Dirty Assets: Emerging Issues in the Regulation of Criminal and Terrorist Assets (King and Walker, Ashgate, 2014). Also with Clive Walker, Colin received funding from the AHRC to establish an international, multi-disciplinary network entitled Dirty Assets: Experiences, reflections, and lessons learnt from a decade of legislation on criminal money laundering and terrorism financing. In 2013, Colin acted as National Expert (Ireland) for a study commissioned by the European Commission, entitled: Study on paving the way for future policy initiatives in the field of the fight against organised crime – effectiveness of specific criminal law measures targeting organised crime.

In 2011, Colin was a Visiting Researcher at the Institute of Criminology, University of Sydney. That year, he also acted as a consultant to an independent review of unexplained wealth orders commissioned by the US National Institute of Justice.

He completed his PhD – The Confiscation of Criminal Assets: Tackling Organised Crime Through a Middleground System of Justice – at the University of Limerick, Ireland (2010). In January 2015, Colin will take up a position as Senior Lecturer in Law at the University of Sussex.

DR DIMITRIOS GIANNOULOPOULOS is Associate Dean (Student Welfare) at the College of Business, Arts & Social Sciences at Brunel University London and a Senior Lecturer in criminal law, evidence and comparative criminal procedure.

Dr Giannouloupolous' research provides cross-cultural analysis of foreign procedural and institutional frameworks of criminal justice, with a focus on indigenous cosmopolitan attitudes and local resistance to international pressures for human rights reform. His comparative research concentrates on the analyses of the criminal justice systems of England, France, Greece and the United States.

He has written a number of chapters and conference papers, and has published articles in journals such as the Criminal Law Review and the International Journal of Evidence & Proof. Dr Giannouloupolous is currently working on his monograph on Improperly Obtained Evidence in Anglo-American and Continental Law (with Hart Publishing).

Dr Giannouloupolous holds a doctorate from the Sorbonne and Masters degrees from the University of Athens, University of Aix-Marseille III and Brunel University London.

DEBATING SOCIETY REPORT BY BELIZE HARRISON, PRESIDENT

The Debating Society has had a busy and exciting first term. On 3 October we held a show debate on the motion "This House believes that celebrities are the best people to solve the world's problems". The debate was lively and entertaining and generated many interesting and impassioned speeches from the floor.

Since the beginning of October we have met every week and sent teams to competitions nearly every weekend. Highlights have included the Oxford University and SOAS Inter-Varsitys, two of the biggest competitions in the UK. After only a few weeks of training, our speakers were topping speaker rankings at competitions. Most remarkably, our teams made it to the finals of both the University College President's Cup and the Southern Debate Association Tournament, where we had not one but two teams in the final!

Over the Christmas break we will be sending a team to compete at the World University Debating Championships in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. This competition is the highlight of the international competitive debating calendar. Last year our team was ranked second best female team in the world and this year we hope to perform even better.

On 16/17 January the society will be hosting the annual Inner Temple Debating Intervarsity. This is one of the most prestigious competitions in the UK, attracting competitors from as far afield as Scotland, Austria and Australia. The winning team is awarded the Harrison Plate, named in honour of the late Master Harrison. If you would like to be involved as a volunteer or a judge please get in touch with Eamonn O'Reilly.

We welcome new members throughout the year and strongly encourage all students to join us at our weekly meetings. The society has got off to a flying start and the rest of the year promises to be even better – no debate about it!

HALLOWEEN QUIZ NIGHT

NATALIE FOSTER
THOMAS MORE CHAMBERS

It was Friday 31 October 2014, All Hallows' Eve, and as dusk fell, junior barristers from up and down the country transformed into witches, wizards, ghosts, vampires, and Tony the Tiger, yes, that's right, Tony the Tiger. Once their transformation was complete they descended upon the Inn to partake in the JBA's Annual Halloween Quiz.

The JBA Halloween Quiz is the one time of the year when junior barristers can get together and fight it out to try and obtain the title of Halloween Quiz Champions. All types of trickery are strictly prohibited. So no spells can be cast, they cannot conjure up any Magic Potions, and the vampires must promise not to draw blood with their fangs.

This year we were graced by Quiz Master, Master Alastair Hodge, who kept all of the creatures of the night in check and ensured the smooth running of the event. The quiz rounds 'How Many?', 'A Load of Balls', and 'Etiquette & Behaviour' were particular favourites and the sound of cackles, hoots, and howls could be heard from the contestants.

The event was sponsored by accountants and friends of Inner Temple, Silver Levene. Their team was led by Mason Bloom. I won't comment on their overall score (cough cough) but what I will say is the round where teams had to name judges past and present didn't go down too well with them. The JBA are ever grateful for the supply of Silver Levene pens and information on their mobile app.

As usual there was lots of wine consumption so many thanks to Rosy Gotelee, Iwona and her wonderful team for the continuous supply of food and drink. In particular the ghostly cupcakes with the protruding brain went down a treat.

Teams were made up of a maximum of 10 with team names including 'Braindead', 'Chambers of Horrors', 'The Bar SATANards Board', and an aptly named 'Nightmare on Warren Street' (you would never guess who they were)!

The winning team was announced by Mason Bloom and the trophy presented to 'Ebola Hats' successfully led by Rupert Myers from East Anglian Chambers. Their team managed an impressive score of 85 out of 120 points in what was a very challenging quiz. The very weighty trophy will now have a place in their chambers trophy cabinet and hopefully the win will deserve a mention in their chambers news feed.

To find out more about the JBA, our events, and to see photos of the Halloween Quiz Night please visit www.facebook.com/ITJBA or follow us on Twitter @InnerTempleJBA

REPORT ON THE LIBERTY MOOT BY WILLIAM SKJITT

On 27 October, over 100 students, members of the Inn and invited guests attended the Liberty Moot in Hall. The Moot was a collaboration between the Inn and the ESU along with Tanfield Chambers and Essex Court Chambers. It was held to launch a new series of moots, starting next year with the Magna Carta Moot, which will see the winners of the Inn's Inter-Varsity moot go head to head with the winners of the ESU Essex Court moot, creating a "moot of moots".

The moot was also intended to be an opportunity to show new BPTC students what mooting entails as well as the level they can hope to achieve by the end of their studies.

For the Liberty Moot, the teams were chosen by the Inner Temple and the ESU, ensuring that two strong teams were in contention. Inner Temple was represented by Ella Davis and Gus Baker, while the ESU was represented by a new pupil Ben Woolgar as well as trainee solicitor Akash Mukerji. It was presided over by Master Brougham, Master Mitchell and Andrew Butler of Tanfield Chambers. After having made their submissions, concerning misrepresentation (or otherwise) in a contract for a wedding venue, the winners were announced as the ESU by Master Brougham with Master Mitchell giving an excellent judgment. Both teams deserve praise for their excellent handling of a large audience, a fearsome bench, and the challenges of the acoustics of the Hall.

The Chairman of the Magna Carta 800 Anniversary Commemoration Committee, Sir Robert Worcester, opened the evening and was followed by Sir Peter Jennings who spoke about the ESU. The event was compered by Master Morley with his usual engagement and flair for the theatrical. This was brought out in the entertainment provided by Paul Stanley QC and his interlude "Quam non ad facere" or, "how not to do it" with submissions about babies, bathwater, the complete lack of any legal precedent, and the three 'Fs' including a tear jerking appeal for the court to uphold wedding 'fairytales'.

The Reader announced the launch of the Magna Carta moot in 2015 and invited the guests into the Parliament Chamber for a convivial evening of drinks where the judges, mooters, and students could mingle.

The convenor wishes to thank the Inner Temple, ESU, Tanfield Chambers, Essex Court Chambers, Paul Stanley QC, Eamonn O'Reilly and Sharin Cockerton for all the work they have put in to making the evening a success.

We look forward to the Magna Carta Moot which will be held in October 2015. We hope to see many members of the Inn coming out to support the event and to celebrate Magna Carta with us.

MOOT JUDGES REQUIRED

We are looking for practitioners to act as moot judges in this year's Lawson Mooting Competition; specifically for the moots on 29 January 2015 and 26 February 2015. All moots are held at the Inn in the evenings and will require no more than two hours of your time. You will be sent any relevant materials well in advance of each moot.

If you would like to judge, please contact Eamonn O'Reilly.

GARDEN NEWS

ANDREA BRUNSENDORF
HEAD GARDENER

THERE IS MUCH TO LOOK FORWARD TO...

Whilst I am writing this, we are in the final stages of planting the spring and early summer bedding in the High Border. Every year we feel a bit rushed because Father Christmas is calling us to lay down our trowels to rest for a fortnight, leaving the (well-prepared) garden to its own devices.

The design of the High Border is based on the principle of succession planting, with pockets of seasonal displays linking the permanent anchors of deciduous and evergreen shrubs, grasses, roses and perennials, all with the aim of providing a year-long display of colour, shape and texture. As well as caring for these permanent inhabitants throughout the year, there are two major periods of re-organisation. In November and December, spring bulbs and bedding are planted after the border has had its autumn clearance and, when those plants have finished flowering in June, their places are taken by summer annuals and tender species. The combination of this late spring planting alongside the perennials and anchors means that the border can hold a riotous display of colour from March to the first frosts at the end of December.

We made really good use of the mild autumn weather with its warm soil by dividing and replanting most perennial clumps and by re-designing some sections of the border. We are looking forward to seeing if these changes will be an improvement when they start to flourish in the spring. In addition, we are very excited about our spring bedding design, based and built on our successful seasonal planting from spring 2014, when we introduced the widely unknown Hesperis steveniana. It is an early flowering sweet rocket that I found in a Belgium seed catalogue two years ago, which we raise as biennial in our nursery through spring and summer before planting it out in late autumn. We have combined this rocket with commonly-used Hesperis matronalis and should therefore have a sweet evening scent lingering from early April to June, produced by the masses of purple flowers.

To accompany the sweet rockets, we have planted honesty 'Munsted Purple' (a dark flowering selection of the purple honesty that originates from Gertrude Jekyll's garden in Sussex), magenta Sweet Williams and two types of Foxgloves, one of which is our own garden strain of Digitalis purpurea and the other is D. purpurea 'Camelot Lavender', which is a completely new introduction to the garden. The latter is an early flowering variety and aims to harmonise with Tulipa 'Blue Aimable', the most beautiful late flowering tulip in long-lasting shades of mauve.

You may have noticed that our under-planting to the tulips and alliums has slightly moved away from the much loved seas of forget-me-nots and wallflowers of previous years. This year our spring display with its purple-mauve colour scheme will be peaking in late April to May. But don't worry, your early spring colour fix will be from the masses of crocuses in our newly developed meadow, tree circles filled with daffodils and a 70 metre drift of viola and bellis along the War of the Roses border.

Anyway, whatever the winter will hold for us, we already know that we are starting our gardening year with a trend; coincidentally purple is the chosen trend colour for 2015, established by a recent survey of BBC Gardeners' Question Time.

LIBRARY USERS' GROUP

Following on from last year's strategic review of library services, and the input of library users to that review, we have now set up a permanent Library Users' Group to provide feedback on current library services and to help us plan for the future.

The Group's membership comprises students, pupils, barristers and judges.

NEW ONLINE SERVICE

We have now added Practical Law to the range of online resources which are available for use within the Library. Feedback from users was very positive when the service was trialled for six months in 2014 and as users were keen for the service to be retained, it was decided to take out a subscription.

ONLINE LEGAL RESEARCH TRAINING

Since October 2013 we have been running a series of three legal research training sessions for new pupils twice a year to coincide with the start of new pupillages.

The sessions have also been recorded and are now available online in a webinar style format so they may be viewed at any time.

Details of the spring 2015 training programme and links to the online versions can be found via the Legal Research Training page of the Library website.

19-20 SEPTEMBER 2015

MAGNA CARTA OPEN WEEKEND

This major event, organised jointly by the Inner and Middle Temple, will be a highlight of our 2015 programme of events to mark the 800th anniversary of the sealing of the Magna Carta by King John in 1215.

Over these two days, both Inns will open their doors to welcome members of the wider public to the Temple. Visitors will be able to visit the Temple Church and the Halls, Treasury buildings, Libraries and Gardens of both Inns, accompanied by volunteer and professional guides. A number of sets of Chambers, some with significant historical connections, will also be open to visitors.

As well as being part of the Open London architectural event, additional attractions will include:

GARDENS: Dramatic interludes in association with the Globe Theatre.

HALLS: Luncheon in Inner Temple Hall, guided access to Middle Temple Hall.

CHURCH: Musical offerings and talks on the Temple Church's role in Magna Carta and the Temple's role in 'the Road to the Rule of Law'.

ROYAL COURTS OF JUSTICE: Advocacy training demonstrations and mock trials.

LIBRARIES: Exhibitions of historical manuscripts and archives.

OUTDOOR FOOD MARKET: Offering the best of modern and historical fare.

We are currently seeking volunteers to assist in staging and promoting this unique event.

- as greeters at the several entrances to the Temple and in the RCJ
- as interior and exterior marshals
- as tour guides and Temple experts training available

READ NOT DEAD AND AMITY AT THE INNS OF COURT

As part of our series of visits to the famous, and sometimes infamous, venues for professional as well as amateur drama, we return to the Inner Temple to present,

THE TROUBLESOME REIGN OF KING JOHN OF ENGLAND

by George Peele

Sunday 1 March, 4.00pm

A major source for Shakespeare's own King John, the earlier Troublesome Reign presents a compelling vision of an England torn apart by war and ruled by a weak and violent monarch. Our Read Not Dead performance of this important play at Inner Temple contributes to the 800th anniversary celebrations of the sealing by King John of Magna Carta, one of the foundation documents of English constitutional law

WHY NOT ADD A RARELY PLAYED INTRODUCTION TO YOUR TICKET FOR JUST £5?

Learn more about each of these plays with our inspiring and engaging seminar introductions prior to our Read Not Dead performance at Inner Temple.

Time: 1.00pm – 3.00pm

Tickets: £5

STAFF NEWS

CARYS NELKON

Carys left the Inn at the end of December to travel to Australia for a year. Carys was the Inn's Outreach co-ordinator for just over a year during which time she successfully coordinated a wide range of outreach programmes, worked on the Yearbook and was a wonderful member of the E&T team. Whilst we were all sad to see her go, we wish her all the best for her year in Australia and the future.

NANETTE HUDSON

Nanette left the Inn in December to pursue her gardening career. We shall all remember with pleasure her pleasant and very friendly nature with which she enhanced the experience of the garden. The Inn wishes her well in the future and hopes she will continue with her career in ornamental horticulture, as she is an excellent gardener.

LONG SERVICE

Congratulations to the following members of staff who have recently completed significant periods of service to the Inn:

15 YEARS

Master Robin Griffith Jones
(Master of the Temple)

10 YEARS

Lisa Harris (Night Security)

AMANDA DENNIS

The Inn is very pleased to announce that the Garden Trainee, Amanda, has accepted the position of Gardener. She will be working part-time from Mon to Thurs until the end of March, when she will be joining the team full-time.

JO BALL

Jo finished her one year contract as seasonal gardener in December; she assisted the Garden Team during the busy gardening periods. She was a pleasure to work with and we wish her all the joy with motherhood and all the best setting up her new home in Bristol.
