MICHAELMAS TERM 2015

Architecture Tour at Open House
London: Revealing Magna Carta

The summer is now behind us and we look ahead to the Inn's calendar of events leading up to Christmas. This year has been dominated by the wide range of activities celebrating the 800th anniversary of Magna Carta and the coming term is no exception. Two of the Magna Carta lectures being given by the four Inns remain to be delivered, that of Gray's Inn and our own here at Inner Temple. The Gray's Inn lecture is to be delivered by Baroness Hale, who can be relied on for an interesting and thought-provoking reflection on the modern significance of the Great Charter. I hope that some of you will be able to join me there on 19 October to enjoy what promises to be one of the highlights of the year's programme. Inner Temple completes the cycle on 23 November with a lecture by Master Baker, the distinguished legal historian, whose insights into the origin of our understanding of Magna Carta can be expected to explore rather different aspects of our understanding of its significance from those considered by the other lecturers, all of whom have been senior judicial figures.

On 26 October, the Inn will host the Magna Carta Moot, in which a team from the Inn will challenge a team representing the English Speaking Union. It promises to be a memorable occasion worthy of its place among our celebrations.

Alongside the Magna Carta lectures the Inn will be hosting two distinguished speakers, Master Straw and Master Butler-Sloss, who have kindly agreed to give the last two in the Reader's series of lectures. Master Straw, who has spent his entire career in public life will speak about another distinguished member of the Inn, Clement Atlee. Master Butler-Sloss needs no introduction. As President of the Family Division and a former Treasurer of the Inn, she has for a long time been a leading figure in the field of Family law and the legal profession in general and still plays an active part in the House of Lords. Her lecture is entitled The Legal Glass Ceiling - Broken or Merely Cracked?

To round off the Magna Carta year, Master HRH The Princess Royal, our Royal Bencher, will announce the winners of the Inner Temple Book Prize at a special event held at the Inn on 9 December. As I write, the judging panel, chaired by Master Rix, have the daunting task of choosing a winning book from over 80 entries.

On 21 October, there will be an extraordinary meeting of Bench Table to consider proposals for extending the Treasury Building by the construction of an additional storey above the Library and Hall. The primary purpose would be to create new facilities for education and training, not just of students, but for young practitioners and other members of Hall, for whom CPD is an established feature of professional life. Some of the proposals would involve a reduction in the size of the Library and opinions are divided about what kind of development would best meet the future needs of the Inn and the profession. It should be possible to provide information about the outcome of the debate in the next edition of Innerview (for more details see page 9).

At the beginning of a new legal year we welcome a new group of students to the Inn and wish them well as they embark on the next stage of training for a career in the law. I hope that they will find the Inn a friendly and supportive atmosphere and I look forward to meeting as many of them as possible during the course of this term. The student societies will be in full swing, and the Inn's residential courses, organised with such efficiency by the Education & Training Department, will begin again in October. There is much to look forward to and I hope you will all enjoy taking part in the activities which the Inn has to offer. If time permits, why not meet friends for lunch in Hall, where the food is excellent and very good value, and afterwards take a stroll in the garden to enjoy the beautiful surroundings created by our talented gardeners?

The planter, which can be seen in the garden, features the arms of the 25 barons and Stephen Langton (Archbishop of Canterbury), the seal of King John and the Pegasus of the Inner Temple.

PROJECT PEGASUS: REDEVELOPMENT OF THE INN'S ESTATE

For some years the Inn has been examining various proposals for the creation of new education and training facilities to enable it to discharge its core function of educating students in accordance with the demands of a modern profession. An ambitious scheme for redeveloping No. 3 Serjeants' Inn (which became known as 'Project Pegasus') had to be abandoned when it became clear that changes to the building that would be required to meet the Inn's needs would not receive the approval of the planning authority. As a result, the development team turned its attention to the possibility of adding an additional storey to the Treasury Building. In the course of their investigations they discovered that the original plans for the building had provided for such an additional floor, which apparently was not proceeded with at the time for financial reasons. It therefore became clear that the structure of the present building was capable of bearing the additional weight.

In the light of that information a scheme for the creation of an additional storey was developed which would preserve, or in the view of some enhance, the external appearance of the building. It has received informal encouragement from the planning authority. Based on that original scheme the following three variations for the redevelopment of the Treasury Building have been produced:

Scheme 1

Construction of an additional storey, with access by lift from Church Court only.

Scheme 1.5

Construction of an additional storey combined with an incursion into the two western rooms of the Library in order to create a tiered auditorium. Access by lift from Church Court and the main entrance hallway.

Scheme 2

Construction of an additional storey combined with an incursion into the two western rooms of the Library in order to create a tiered auditorium and in addition the construction of a mezzanine floor at gallery level in the remainder of the Library in order to create a second additional storey. Access by lift from Church Court and the main entrance hallway.

The proposals, in particular Schemes 1.5 and 2, have generated a lively debate between those who consider that the future of the Inn lies in expanding its educational function and who therefore regard the creation of modern education and training facilities, including a purpose-built auditorium, as a priority and those who consider that the Inn has an overriding duty to protect and enhance the Library and the service it offers to members of the Inn, which is a central element of the intellectual and collegiate life of the Inn. The former are concerned that the Education & Training Department currently has no purpose-built education and training rooms at its disposal and is forced to make use of the Bench apartments which are not really suitable for training purposes. In addition, the Education & Training Department is housed in cramped basement rooms that do not provide sufficient space for its operations. The latter point out that the creation of the auditorium proposed in Schemes 1.5 and 2 would result in major alterations to the Library's existing rooms, the loss of about half of the existing reader places and the removal to storage of a large number of books currently on open shelves. Some are concerned about the effect that the construction of a mezzanine floor would have on the architectural and aesthetic quality of the Library.

The implementation of any of the three schemes would inevitably result in the closure of the Treasury Building, Hall and Library during at least part of the construction period, currently estimated at between 60 and 80 weeks in total.

The Executive Committee considered these proposals at its meeting on 21 July 2015. The majority were of the view that the Inn should proceed with Scheme 2 and a recommendation to that effect will be made to Bench Table.

The decision whether to proceed with any, and if so which, of these proposals lies with Bench Table, which will consider them at a meeting specially convened for that purpose on 21 October 2015.

PUPILLAGE MATCHED FUNDING SCHEME

www.innsocourt.org.uk

The Pupillage Matched Funding Scheme was set up in 2013 and has been very successful in helping an increased number of students to qualify as barristers. The Scheme encourages the provision of additional pupillages in those chambers (and other approved training organisations) where work is predominantly publicly funded.

Under the Scheme the Inns will match the first six funding already provided by chambers with a matched funding grant of £6,000 to fund the first six months of a second pupillage. If a chambers would, but for this scheme, have offered two pupillages then it can apply for up to two grants of £6,000 to fund two additional pupillages (i.e. four pupillages in total), and so on, hence matched funding. Applications for a grant of £3,000 will also be considered from those chambers which have not recently provided a pupillage and would like to do so; chambers would provide £3,000 towards the first six months of pupillage.

In 2014, the first year of operation, an additional 14 pupillages were funded. 41 grants have been agreed for pupillages commencing in 2015 and, so far, 31 for pupillages commencing in 2016. The Inns will continue to fund the Scheme into 2017 and 2018. The Scheme is advertised on the Inns' websites and in-house newsletters and in Counsel magazine. Applications for grants are invited between 1 September and 1 December by way of an application online on the COIC Matched Funding website www.innsocourt.org.uk. A Grants Committee considers the applications on behalf of the Inns and decides which applicants are to benefit from a grant.

It is not possible to say precisely how many tenancies have arisen out of the funded pupillages, because of the way the Scheme was set up. However, the Scheme has successfully provided an increased number of students with the means of qualifying, which is what it set out to do.

JUSTICE SECTOR TRAINING IN SOMALILAND

Since the end of 2014, Inner Temple members Peter Melleney, Chloé Barton and David Wood of Charter Chambers have been delivering justice sector training in Somaliland on behalf of the Horizon Institute, a consultancy firm set up by Rakiya Omaar which helps communities transition from fragility and underdevelopment to resilience and stability. Horizon has funding from DfID to implement a Somaliland Justice Sector Support Project.

Somaliland is a self-declared independent state in the Horn of Africa. It was a British Protectorate until June 1960 when it gained independence; five days later it joined the former Italian colony of Somalia to form the Republic of Somalia. During the 1980s, the region experienced extensive human rights abuses under the military regime of Siad Barre, including aerial bombings of the main cities, driving much of the population into Ethiopia or further afield as refugees. Following Barre's fall in 1991, Somaliland seceded from Somalia on 18 May 1991 at a congress in Burao, reclaiming its independence. Since then it has enjoyed relative peace and security; the first Presidential elections were held in 2003 with the next round now expected in summer 2016. Recognition as an independent state by the international community has however remained elusive.

Somaliland has a complex legal landscape; the formal court system, customary law and Sharia law operate effectively in tandem with Sharia law having constitutional primacy.

Its criminal law reflects its mixed history, with elements of both common law and civil law jurisdictions. The Criminal Procedure Code 1965 has its origins in the Indian Evidence Act 1872, but The Penal Code 1962 in contrast is based on the Italian Penal Code 1930. The tension between the two systems can cause significant problems and there are real practical difficulties in ensuring fair trial rights are upheld, exacerbated by a lack of resources. There is a clear motivation to address these problems however, and it was against that background that the training programme was developed.

Several trips to Somaliland have taken place over the last few months, and more are planned. Particular emphasis has been given to training prosecutors (all employed by the Attorney General; there are no independent prosecutors) on the law of evidence and Human Rights, including advocacy sessions. The training has been well received, with one of the participants describing the course as “a golden opportunity” in the absence of other formal training. A similar course was then delivered to defence practitioners from the Somaliland Lawyers Association and the Somaliland Womens’ Lawyers Association. Senior members of Charter have also provided training to Judges, and work is ongoing to incorporate training on Juvenile Justice.

Despite a hectic schedule the trainers have found time to enjoy some of the sights that the capital, Hargeisa, and the surrounding areas have to offer, particularly a trip to Laas Geel, a series of truly stunning rock paintings estimated to originate from around 7000 BC.

There were also outings to the camel market, dinner at the local cultural centre (yes, camel was on the menu), a theatre date to watch a production of Hamlet by Shakespeare’s Globe, and several evenings at Hargeisa’s 8th International Book Fair.

The challenges for delivering justice in Somaliland remain significant, but one cannot help but notice the enthusiasm to improve matters as part of the region’s push for international recognition. Gratifyingly, on return trips there was clear evidence of our lessons being put into practice in Court. The Inn has a proud history of its members working overseas, and hopefully this project will go on to be a further example of success.

1945 REVISITED – THE INNER TEMPLE AT THE HEART OF INTERNATIONAL JUSTICE

BY MASTER KAY

By United States Army
Signal Corps

Law School Library,
Harvard University [1])
[Public domain], via Wikimedia Commons

1945 was a busy year in the Inner Temple. Whilst the Inn was coming to terms with its reconstruction after the end of the war in Europe, it was also the hub of the international legal world that was preparing to deal with justice after the conflict. 20 November 2015 is a significant anniversary of those events; on that day 70 years ago, the President of the International Military Tribunal (IMT) sitting in Nuremburg opened the trial of the major war criminals of the Third Reich. The President of the IMT was a member of the Inner Temple and Treasurer in 1954, Sir Geoffrey Lawrence (later Lord Oaksey), whose portrait hangs in our Hall to this day, and, if studied carefully, seems to reveal the eyes of a man who had seen much and had listened to even more.

Caroline Budden contacted me with an interesting anecdote when she learnt of the History Society seminar to be held on 20 November 2015 to commemorate the Nuremburg trial:

“My father was a navigator/bomb aimer in Bomber Command in WW2. After the war he flew for a time with 24 Squadron based at Hendon and one of their tasks was to ferry VIPs around Europe. On 10 January 1946, his crew flew Sir Geoffrey Lawrence to Nuremberg, leaving at 8.40 am from Hendon. Sir Geoffrey asked them to stay the night and arranged for them to attend the trial. They were sitting just a few feet away from the Nazi war criminals. My father recalled the evidence of a Czech doctor named Franz Blaba, who gave evidence for the prosecution of the horrific medical experiments that were carried out on the prisoners. He performed approximately 8,000 autopsies. He was also able to identify a number of the defendants as having visited and toured Dachau Concentration Camp and therefore had knowledge of what was happening there.”

Caroline found a transcript and video clip of this day of the trial on the Internet, and it relayed to her what her father had heard in court and brought to life his recollections, which she described as “harrowing”.

The British Reserve Judge at Nuremburg, Sir Norman Birkett, described the trial as “the greatest in history”, but Sir Geoffrey himself took a very pragmatic view of it, as his words in December 1946 demonstrate:

“There were, I suppose, three possible courses: to let the atrocities which had been committed go unpunished; to put the perpetrators to death or punish them by executive action; or to try them. Which was it to be? Was it possible to let such atrocities go unpunished? Could France, could Russia, could Holland, Belgium, Norway, Czechoslovakia, Poland or Yugoslavia be expected to consent to such a course?... It will be remembered that after the First World War, alleged criminals were handed over to be tried by Germany, and what a farce that was! The majority got off and such sentences as were inflicted were derisory and were soon remitted.”

Another Treasurer who played a significant role in this chapter of history was Lord Wright of Durley. He presided over the massive rebuilding programme that followed the destruction of the Inn in 1941 and was Treasurer in 1946. It was amongst the rubble of those buildings, in Temple House, that the historic Nuremburg Charter establishing the IMT was signed on 8 August 1945. Signatories included a mixture of the prosecution and judiciary that took part in the trial: Robert Jackson, the US prosecutor; Robert Falco, the French reserve judge; and Iona Nikitchenko, who sat as the Russian judge along with Professor Aaron Trainin (USSR) and Lord Jowitt the Lord Chancellor of England and Wales. However, it is not for his reconstruction programme that Lord Wright is of such international significance. He was the Chairman of the United Nations War Crimes Commission National Offices Conference that met in London from 31 May to 2 June 1945, in Court 5 of the Royal Courts of Justice, and this year also marks that event's 70 year anniversary.

Court 5 of the RCJ was where what was called the 'National Offices' of 16 states met for a conference to discuss the means and ways of collecting evidence and capturing war criminals, so that national governments could prosecute those that had committed crimes on their people and upon their lands. The 16 states included Russia, China and the United States. The Inner Temple library holds a book on the History of the United Nations War Crimes Commission and the Development of the Laws of War. The foreword and introductory chapter are written by Lord Wright, but I will quote here from the minutes of his speech that opened the conference and which sums up the spirit of the UNWCC:

"The time has now come when the mere collection of material must change over into action. Action here means the trials of criminals and their conviction, sentence and punishment where appropriate. That is the goal to which we have all been working. Justice to be effective must be expeditious, any avoidable delay is certainly mischievous and may be fatal to the attainment of the object which is sought, that is the punishment of the criminals for the double purpose of retribution to satisfy the people's demand for justice, and of warning and example to deter such crimes in future."

The UNWCC had the function of investigating evidence referred to it and then reporting to the governments of the 16 states the identities of perpetrators suspected of committing the crimes. The Commission had no investigation capacity itself, but was intended to supply the evidence it acquired to the National Commissions that would undertake the complete prosecutions in their own states. The system was described by Lord Wright: "Each to its own work in bringing to justice these enemies who committed offences against its nationals." Lord Wright ended his speech with the words: "The end is worthwhile. Fiat justitia."

On 20 November 2015, the History Society will host a seminar on the Nuremburg IMT and the UNWCC with two leading authorities, Professor William Schabas OC and Dr Dan Plesch, as the principal speakers. On 21 November, Professor Schabas will lead a walking tour of the important historical sites in London where the events took place. Come and join us on both days!

The lecture will be followed by a Q&A session. An informal bowl food dinner will also be available for those who wish to continue the discussion afterwards.

STUDENT TRAINING AND SUPPORT

We are looking forward to welcoming our new BPTC student members to the Inn at Introductory events in September and October. Students will be given information on the Inn's qualifying sessions including expert lectures, advocacy training, student residential conferences and presentational skills sessions, all of which are designed to complement students' BPTC training and allow students to meet with and learn from practising barristers and judges.

This year's student residential conferences will focus on the following topics:

■ Terrorism

Cumberland Lodge, December 2015

■ Advocacy Training

Highgate House, February 2016

■ Vulnerable Witnesses

Highgate House, May 2016

Our new students will also receive details on the support schemes we offer including marshalling, mentoring, mock interviews and police liaison. They will also hear from the Presidents of the four Inner Temple Societies (ITSA, Mooting, Debating and Drama) about how they can become involved in the Societies' activities.

The E&T Department would like to take this opportunity to welcome our new BPTC students – we look forward to working with you this year and in the future.

QUESTION & ANSWER DAY

The Inn's annual Question & Answer Day for students interested in a career at the Bar took place on Sunday 21 June. This year's event was held in conjunction with the Inn's Junior Bar Association and legal news website, Legal Cheek.

The day was a huge success with over 100 students attending from a wide range of universities. The day provided an insight into the different areas of practice and life as a junior practitioner and was an opportunity for students to gain valuable advice on pupillage interviews. This was followed by a reception where students were able to meet and speak informally with members of the Inn.

Thanks go to all the members of the junior Bar who volunteered at this event and the committee of the Junior Bar Association for their support.

BRITISH FOUNDATION FOR THE UNIVERSITY OF THE WEST INDIES

Susan Belgrave

On Saturday 27 June, the Inner Temple, sponsored a legal workshop organised by the British Foundation for the University of the West Indies (BFUWI). Some 180 students between the ages of 14-16 from Caribbean, BAME and/or disadvantaged backgrounds, teachers, and parents attended the successful event. BFUWI trustee, Susan Belgrave, member of the Inn, said the event was designed to inspire the next generation by showing the wealth of talent which exists among BAME lawyers.

In her opening remarks Susan pointed out that coming from a modest or minority ethnic background was not a barrier to success. She also noted that the four sessions of the day were all being chaired by female UWI graduates including herself and Desiree Artesi (Master Artesi).

Sessions covered skills and qualifications which were needed to become a lawyer as well as routes to enter the profession; life in private practice; options of working in house and the final session discussed the future of the profession.

Speakers included Richard Wilson QC and Leslie Thomas QC (Master Leslie Thomas) who spoke about their careers. Attendees were surprised and delighted to see Courtenay Griffiths QC join the last session of the day.

Richard Wilson QC

Students were asked what they thought was the most important legal issue today. 17 year old Rebekah Evans won the quiz with the response: “undoubtedly human rights because by unlocking fundamental entitlements which underpin every element of life we will ultimately strive and achieve justice for all.” She remarked that it was a day she would always remember.

The Trustees of BFUWI are extremely grateful to the Inner Temple without whom the event would not have been possible.

For more information on the activities of BFUWI go to their website www.thebfuwi.org; email them on admin@thebfuwi.org or follow them on twitter @British_UWI

GET INVOLVED WITH OUTREACH!

Research undertaken by the Outreach Team indicates that the Inn's outreach programme and its efforts to improve accessibility to the profession for talented students from any background, are important factors in students selecting Inner Temple as their Inn of choice. Responding to a recent survey, BPTC students commented that "I was awarded a place on the Pegasus Access Scheme through the Inner Temple which was a fantastic experience. All my dealings with the Inn through this were positive"; "it has an excellent reputation as the most progressive Inn"; and "a member of the Inner Temple Outreach Team also visited my university."

The Inn's outreach programme would not be possible without the support of the many members who give up their time to volunteer at events. If you would like to be involved in the Inn's outreach work, including any of the forthcoming events listed below, then please contact Struan Campbell or Lacara Barnes-Rowe.

As part of the Inner Temple Schools Project, a seminar for year 12/13 state school students from the Greater London area will be taking place on Friday 6 November and the first event of the 2015-16 Pathways to Law programme will take place at the Inn on Wednesday 25 November.

If you are interested in volunteering for either of these events, or for the project in general, please contact Lacara Barnes-Rowe.

LAW FAIRS

Each year, the Inn attends law fairs at universities across England and Wales, and this year is no exception. Alongside the Bar Council and COMBAR, we will be attending over 20 law fairs to provide prospective BPTC students with information on a career at the Bar. If your chambers have any useful materials that could be shared with students at law fairs, please contact Struan Campbell.

PASS

We are pleased to announce that 7 Bedford Row is the latest set of chambers to sign up to support the Pegasus Access & Support Scheme (PASS). PASS was launched in September 2012 to provide mini-pupillages to undergraduates from low socio-economic backgrounds who have been predicted a 2:1 or above. Preference is given to those students who have participated in projects with Pathways to Law, the Social Mobility Foundation, as well as the Inner Temple Schools Project. 144 university students, mainly second or final-year, have been matched with chambers for mini-pupillages over the past three years. So far, 38 of these have gone on to apply for CPE or BPTC scholarships with the Inn awarding £195,150 in scholarships to PASS students over the past three years.

ACT AS A WITNESS IN ADVOCACY TRAINING

The E&T Department is recruiting BPTC students to act as witnesses in our mock trials for pupils. As well as gaining a qualifying session (when attending two separate mock trials), this is a great opportunity to take part in the Inn's advocacy training programme for pupils. We are currently recruiting for the following dates in 2015:

Wednesday 18 November 2015
Monday 23 November 2015
Tuesday 24 November 2015
Wednesday 25 November 2015

All the mock trials will take place at the Royal Courts of Justice from 5.30pm to 7.30pm. Further sessions will be available in February 2016.

To register your interest, or for further information, please contact Kerry Upham or David Miller.

POLICE LIAISON SCHEME

The Police Liaison Scheme aims to promote good relations between the Bar and the Police Service. The scheme allows BPTC students to visit police stations in one of four participating London boroughs and to accompany officers on patrol or in the CID Department. The scheme has helped many students interested in a career at the criminal Bar to become familiar with police station procedures and the way in which incidents are dealt with. BPTC students participating in this year's Inner Temple Police Liaison Scheme will begin their visits to police stations in October 2015. Visits will be arranged throughout the academic year. The scheme is a reciprocal one, with further events organised to give police officers a greater understanding of the work of barristers and judges. This includes a mock trial in February each year.

If you are interested in helping out or in finding out more about the scheme, please contact Lacara Barnes-Rowe.

EDUCATION & TRAINING DEPARTMENT

MENTORING SCHEME

The Mentoring Scheme aims to provide students with advice, guidance and a point of contact during their initial stages of becoming a barrister. Mentors are allocated at the beginning of the academic year and demand is always very high. This year is no exception so we are in need of more volunteers. If you are a barrister of five years' Call or more and would like to help out or would like some further information, then please contact Paul Clark.

MARSHALLING SCHEME

The Marshalling Scheme is run for the benefit of current BPTC students. Feedback from the students has shown that it has helped increase their understanding of the judiciary system and provide them with a new perspective of being both a barrister and a judge. Placements are allocated throughout the year and it is always a popular scheme for the students. As always we would welcome interest from judges around the country to help increase the number of opportunities we can provide for the Inn's newest members. It would involve agreeing to have a student sit with you for anything between one day and five days, informing them about the life of a judge and letting them sit in Court and hear the cases. If you are a judge and would like further information on the scheme, please contact Kerry Upham.

CALLING ALL PUPILS!

The compulsory advocacy course for pupils will begin in October 2015. If you have not yet registered your pupillage with the Inn please contact David Miller as soon as possible. Even if you are not due to start pupillage until spring 2016, you must attend an advocacy course before then, so please register your details.

Failure to do so could result in you not being issued with a practising certificate.

The Practice Management Course will be held on Saturday 16 January 2016. This course is compulsory and information will be sent to pupils at the same time as the advocacy course dates.

INTER INN MOOTING COMPETITION 2015

MEREDITH MAJOR, 2015-16 MOOTING SOCIETY PRESIDENT

Monday 13 July saw the culmination of this year's Inter Inn Mooting Competition, hosted by Inner Temple as the reigning champions. The annual event comprises two rounds, with a team of two students representing each Inn and aims to promote the friendly rivalry between the Inns and their student members.

This year's competition was sponsored by the Ecclesiastical Law Society who set two challenging moot problems covering contemporary aspects of ecclesiastical law. The first centred on a claim in nuisance arising out of church bell ringing, the second on the ownership of a painting and the resulting requirements for removing it from the church. This gave all the mooters, and some of the judges, the opportunity to explore new areas of law and the complex interaction between the consistory and temporal courts.

Teams from Inner Temple and Gray's Inn battled it out in the final in the hope of winning £500, the Inter-Inn shield and the honour of hosting the competition in 2016. Unfortunately the home team lost out in a closely fought moot, and therefore congratulations are due to William Horwood and Daisy Noble of Gray's Inn.

Whilst we were sad to relinquish Inner Temple's three year hold of the shield, we are looking forward to next year's competition in the hope of reclaiming it!

SUMMER SHAKESPEARE

GARETH FROW, 2014-15 DRAMA SOCIETY PRESIDENT

As our summer production, Inner Temple Drama Society decided to stay true to recent tradition and perform a Shakespeare classic, and this year chose A Midsummer Night's Dream. As in previous years we intended to perform in the beautiful and serene surroundings of the Temple Church courtyard; however this year for one performance we were thwarted by the changeable British weather. We were pleased to welcome a number of new faces for this year's show along with many who returned after a successful and enjoyable part in our pantomime earlier in the year.

Auditions took place at the beginning of June and rehearsals began straight away, with a read-through to allow the cast to meet each other. As with previous shows we rehearsed in rooms at Inner Temple itself on four evenings every week, with three weekend day rehearsals in the run-up to the show itself. These are always friendly and encouraging environments in which to perform and we were pleased at how committed everyone was to making the show the best it could be.

The first show did indeed take place in the courtyard on a beautiful summer's evening, in front of a wonderfully receptive and sometimes raucous audience! The backdrop really lent itself to the setting described by Shakespeare himself, especially in the forest scenes.

The second performance took place in the equally picturesque setting of the Inner Temple Parliament Chamber, where we welcomed an audience in excess of seventy. Shakespeare's characters really came to life and the audience were able to feel part of the magic of the play.

We were delighted to receive universally positive feedback on the show and look forward to the Society continuing to grow and to entertain Inner Templars for years to come. The cast of A Midsummer Night's Dream had a great time and would encourage anyone to get involved.

PEGASUS SCHOLARSHIPS

Applications for the 2016 Pegasus Scholarships will open in early October and the closing date is 30 November 2015. Scholarships are available to tenants or employed barristers (of all four Inns) who have practised as a barrister for up to five years (not including pupillage). This is an opportunity to spend six to twelve weeks in another jurisdiction seeing how its legal system works as well as making new friends and (possibly) escaping the worst of the British weather. For an application form please access the Pegasus web pages via the Inner Temple website.

This summer we welcomed six incoming Overseas Scholars who had just completed their LL.M degrees at the University of Cambridge. The scholars from Australia, Ukraine, Armenia, Brazil and Singapore worked in various chambers and also visited the Royal Courts of Justice, the Old Bailey and the Supreme Court.

ARCHIVES

SIR ARCHIBALD LEVIN SMITH

1836-1901

The Inn was delighted to receive a visit from Mrs Angela Smith whose late husband was the great-grandson of one of our most distinguished members, Sir Archibald Levin Smith. He was a Privy Councillor and he held the offices of Lord Justice of Appeal and Master of the Rolls. Mrs Smith has donated the parchments and seals attached to the latter offices along with notes taken during some of the murder cases at which Sir Archibald was present either on the bench or at the Bar.

Sir Archibald's imposing presence in court was not only due to his towering intellect. He was almost 7 feet tall. Known for his good humour, cheerfulness and modesty, he was a great favourite amongst his contemporaries and he swiftly rose through the ranks of the legal world moving from the home circuit, where he specialised in commercial cases and election petitions, to the post of junior Treasury Counsel in 1879. In 1883, he joined the ranks of the judges of the Queen's Bench Division. In the same year he was knighted and elected a Bencher of this Inn. In 1892, he was promoted to the Court of Appeal and in 1900 he succeeded Lord

Master Paget, Mrs Angela Smith and the Treasurer

Alverstone as Master of the Rolls. He was not to remain long in this distinguished post. In 1901, his wife drowned in the Spey whilst holidaying with their son-in-law. Sir Archibald never recovered from his shock and grief and he died shortly after, in October 1901.

THE BAR MUSICAL SOCIETY

The Bar Musical Society has been running for more than sixty years. Despite increasing commercial pressures, with careful planning and an ever-enterprising committee, it continues from strength to strength.

The Society's aim is to promote the love and appreciation of music by student members of the Inns, barristers and judges. There are three or four concerts each year (held in the Inns or nearby) given by professional musicians. The concerts are followed by supper, creating the opportunity to meet like-minded students, barristers and judges in an informal environment. The performers frequently join members of the Society after the concert for supper.

There are also, occasionally, Members' Concerts, where members have an opportunity to perform. These are usually held in June in Gray's Inn Chapel commencing at 6.45 pm and followed by supper.

Our next concert is the Duruflé Requiem, sung by the St Genesius Choir in Temple Church on 22 October 2015 at 7.30pm

STAFF NEWS

FRANCESCA ELLIS

Francesca left the Inn at the end of August to take up a role working for the Conservatives in the European Parliament.

Francesca was Education

Co-ordinator and Assistant to the Head of Education for four years during which time she organised numerous successful student conference weekends, was Secretary to the Pupil Supervisors' Sub-Committee and was a fantastic member of the E&T team. Whilst we were all sad to see her go, we wish her every success in her new role.

JULIA ARMFIELD

Julia joins the E&T Department as the new Education Co-ordinator and Assistant to the Head of Education & Training. Julia is joining us from Fine+Rare Wines where she was Digital Writer and Assistant to the Commercial Editor. We are very much looking forward to working with her.

NATALIE KENT

Natalie, one of the key members of the Library's Enquiry Point and document supply team, left the Inn in August to take up a post as Assistant Librarian at Pembroke College, Cambridge.

VERITY PARKINSON

Natalie will be succeeded by Verity, who has been working in the Library as an evening assistant since September 2014.

RIKKI BREEM

Members will be saddened to learn that Rikki Breem, one of our former Deputy Librarians, recently died. She worked for the Library from 1961 to 1992 and was Deputy Librarian for most of that time. She was married to the former Librarian, Wallace Breem.
