TRINITY TERM 2014

I little imagined that my duties as Treasurer would take me to the vast Palace in Bucharest which is the infamous monument to the late President Nicolae Ceausescu of Romania.

This is a most extraordinary building, the second largest in the world after only the Pentagon. A little more about it anon. But first I must explain what took me there wearing the Treasurer's hat in April.

Romania currently holds the Chairmanship of the South Eastern European Co-operation Process. The SEECP is an association of nations rather like ASEAN in South East Asia. In April the Romanian Ministry of Justice organised and chaired a Regional Conference on Promoting Best Practices in Fighting High-Level Corruption and on Asset Recovery. Tackling high-level corruption is a serious imperative for many of these nations, and it is an enterprise in which they both need and actively solicit help from the Western European nations. It is an enterprise in which those motivated to do it – who tend to be the judiciary and the executive rather than the political class – enjoy a better prospect of success if assisted by external European institutions. Hence the Romanians turned for assistance to the British Embassy in Bucharest and to the Rule of Law Programme for South East Europe of the Konrad Adenauer Stiftung.

Through the good offices of Adelina Brad, a Romanian barrister member of the Inn, currently serving as Senior Political Officer at the British Embassy in Bucharest, the Inner Temple was invited to send a delegation to take part in the Conference. Thus it was that the Sub-Treasurer and I travelled to Bucharest, accompanied by Masters Alison Saunders, the DPP, Alistair McCreath, Resident Judge at Southwark Crown Court, our foremost court dealing with white-collar crime and Barry Rider, a leading academic authority on economic crime, who each contributed to the sessions on “Adjudicating High-Level Corruption Cases”, for which I acted as moderator, and “Tracing and Asset Recovery”.

We were confident that our participation helped strengthen the already excellent relationship between our Embassy and the Romanian Ministries of Foreign Affairs and of Justice, which it was clear was itself the product of tireless work by our Ambassador, HE Martin Harris, since despatched to Moscow as our No.2. We tried to stress that central to the fight against corruption must be that there are no exemptions or privileges for anyone, and that no one is above the law. It was gratifying to be told by the Embassy after the event that the Romanian Courts are seeking to establish this as a fundamental principle. As the Chargé d’Affaires wrote to me:-

“In time, this is changing the climate in the country – for business, for politics, for the evolution of vibrant democratic institutions. It is making the Romanian State stronger and less vulnerable, more secure and more successful as a NATO ally and a member of the European Union.”

Back to the Palace. Construction started in 1984 and for the next five or six years consumed 40% of Romania’s GDP. It was unfinished at the time of Ceausescu’s overthrow and execution and indeed is still unfinished, but he did see the completion of the enormous Hall in which we met. Designed and used for meetings of the Communist Politbureau and built with Renaissance influences in mind, the Hall’s crystal chandelier (the second largest of the 480 in the building) weighs two tons. Sixty identical oak armchairs are placed at a huge circular table, where apparently there was intended to be placed at a higher level than the others a yet more grand chair reserved for the President alone. The Romanians, who evidently have a keen sense of humour, have renamed this Hall “The Human Rights Conference Hall”.

I could go on. The entire building is only naturally ventilated and apparently insufferable in high summer. Ceausescu feared poisoning through the medium of an air conditioning system. It now houses the Romanian Parliament, and much else besides. The enormous Boulevard Unirii which leads up to the Palace was designed to be exactly one metre wider than the Champs Elysees and it is certainly impressive, though not altogether comparable.

All in all, an interesting and unexpected trip.

INTERNATIONAL LEGAL ETHICS CONFERENCE

The Inner Temple is sponsoring a major international conference on the subject of the teaching of ethics this coming 10 - 12 July, organised by City University. This will be the first time that this prestigious biennial event will have been held in the United Kingdom bringing together academics and practitioners from all over the world. The Inn is providing the speakers for a keynote session chaired by Master Nicholas Green, Chairman of the Advocacy Training Council. We will also be welcoming all delegates to the conference dinner in our Great Hall on 11 July and to Choral Mattins in The Temple Church on 13 July.

Full details can be found at www.city.ac.uk/international-legal-ethics-conference

TEMPLE LEGAL CENTRE

Temple Legal Centre is going from strength to strength however we still need more advisors. A timetable is currently being drafted and it is expected that an advisor would only be required once a quarter. If you are a family practitioner and consider that the legal aid cuts are affecting the vulnerable and reducing the access to justice, please volunteer as an advisor in the only dedicated family legal advice centre in London. THANK YOU!

Once again, the E&T Department would like to thank all our members who have organised, taught at or participated in the huge variety of training events and activities we have undertaken this academic year. We greatly appreciate you giving up your days, evenings and weekends to help – your support is invaluable. We look forward to seeing you at the remaining events this term.

If you are a member who would like to volunteer to help with E&T activities, please see our Guide to Volunteering Opportunities in the Members' section on the website or request a copy from the E&T Department.

UNIVERSITY, REGIONAL RECEPTIONS AND LAW FAIRS

Michaelmas is always a busy time for the outreach team as they attend 20 law fairs across the country in coordination with the Bar Council and Commercial Bar Association.

The Inn also runs four large university evening presentations annually in London (23 October 2014), Bristol (28 October 2014), Cambridge (22 October 2014) and Oxford (30 October 2014) for university students who are considering a career at the Bar.

In addition, other receptions on circuit are being organised, including a reception in Newcastle in November 2014. These events will bring local practitioners together with university students in the area in order to inform them about careers at the Bar in an informal atmosphere. If you are interested in getting involved in your local area, please contact Anthony Dursi.

MOCK INTERVIEW SCHEME – VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

This scheme gives students a chance to practise their interview technique in front of established barristers prior to their 'real' pupillage interview. The scheme is very popular, and student feedback is consistently positive. As the pupillage interview season is in full swing, the scheme needs more volunteers. The time commitment is flexible but is usually around 1–3 hours per year. For more information, or if you would like to volunteer, please contact Carys Nelkon.

INNER TEMPLE SCHOOLS PROJECT

On 9 April 2014, the Inn hosted an Open Day for non-London school students participating in the national Pathways to Law programme. Pathways to Law is aimed at high-achieving state school students with no family history of higher education and supports them through a two year legal programme in conjunction with leading law faculties. Over sixty Year 13 students who are on the Pathways programme through the coordinating universities of Bristol, Leeds, Manchester, Southampton and Warwick were all welcomed to the Inn for a day learning more about a career at the Bar.

The event comprised presentations on training for the Bar, a panel discussion on life as a barrister in different practice areas and group case law and plea in mitigation exercises. The day culminated in visits to chambers, which provided students with an insight into life as a barrister as well as an opportunity to talk to members of chambers and clerks or practice managers.

We would like to thank everyone who participated, including Jane Evans-Gordon (New Square Chambers) who welcomed the students, our panel: Joe England (3 Paper Buildings), David Gollancz (Keating Chambers), Sushil Kumar (25 Bedford Row), Helen Pugh (3 Hare Court) as well as those who ran advocacy sessions: David Jukes (Hailsham Chambers), Hui Ling McCarthy (Gray's Inn Tax Chambers), Greg Perrins (1 Paper Buildings), David Wood (Charter Chambers), and Hauwa Shehu (Student).

Thank you also to the chambers who kindly agreed to host a group of students for the session: Blackstone Chambers, Garden Court Chambers, Hardwicke Chambers, and Keating Chambers.

Our next schools project events are on the afternoons of 7 and 26 November. We rely on the support of members for the project, and would be grateful for any additional volunteers. If you are interested in volunteering for any of our schools project events, please contact Carys Nelkon.

APRIL NEW PRACTITIONERS' ADVOCACY & ETHICS WEEKEND

In April, the E&T Department held the first of its two annual Advocacy and Ethics weekends for New Practitioners. The weekend was accredited for 17 CPD hours including nine hours of advocacy training and three hours of ethics training and was attended by 40 junior barristers. The course allowed NPs the opportunity to cross examine expert medical witnesses and to tackle a series of hypothetical ethical problems with the assistance of practising solicitors. A hugely entertaining after-dinner speech on the Saturday night was given by Alastair Hodge, known to some as 'the Rory Bremner of the Inner Temple'! The E&T Department would like to thank all those advocacy trainers who gave up their weekend to teach.

ADVOCACY PRIZE FOR PUPILS

We are very grateful again to Master Simon Davis and his wife Caroline for their generous donation for the Advocacy Prize, awarded to pupils demonstrating the best advocacy skills on the Inn's pupils' advocacy courses. Congratulations to Andrew Carruth (Quadrant Chambers) and Jessica Elliott (1 Crown Office Row) who were declared joint winners.

LAWSON MOOT

On Monday 28 April 2014, the final of the Lawson Mooting competition was held at Inner Temple. The Lawson Moot is an internal competition open to student members of the Inner Temple. This year was the inaugural award of the Sachs Cup, a silver golfing trophy donated to the Inn by Lord Justice Sachs in 1965. To mark the occasion, the Inn was fortunate enough to welcome Richard Sachs, the son of Lord Justice Sachs who observed that his father would have been “delighted to see his cup put to such an admirable use”. This year’s final was judged by the following Masters of the Bench: The Rt Hon The Lord Hughes, Sir David Maddison and HHJ William Davis QC.

The problem for the final raised two points of appeal. The first related to the definition of consent under section 74 of the Sexual Offences Act 2003. The second raised the question as to what extent a disease of the mind may be relevant when considering whether a defendant has a reasonable belief in the consent of the complainant.

The finalists, Sam Stevens, Wonu Sanda, Ella Davis and Matthew Gaunt, were very persuasive in their submissions and demonstrated a clear understanding of the law in their responses to judicial intervention. Ella Davis, a BPTC graduate, was the winner of the competition. Sam Stevens, a current BPTC student, was the runner-up.

Pump Court, this year’s sponsor, also awarded a mini-pupillage to both Ella and Sam Stevens. The Junior Bar Association kindly awarded book tokens to Ella Davis and each of the finalists.

The Mooting Society Committee would like to thank the Inn for its support, Pump Court for acting as our sponsor, and to all of those who have kindly offered to judge the competition. Finally we would like to thank Emma Parkman and Henry Skudra, the organisers, for their hard work and dedication.

CALLING ALL NEW PUPILS!

If you have secured pupillage please remember to register your pupillage with the Bar Standards Board and also the E&T Department at the Inn.

Please visit the Inner Temple website or contact David Miller for further information and a Pupillage Registration Form.

E-LIBRARY

The Library's online catalogue has been upgraded to SirsiDynix's e-Library following a lengthy period of testing and customisation. The interface has been modernised and redesigned to make it more user-friendly and to bring it in line with the Library's other online branding. It is now also compatible with mobile devices. The catalogues of the other three Inn Libraries can be accessed through this same interface.

The actual functionality of the catalogue has not changed: it can still be searched by author, title, subject, keyword and series, in various combinations. We welcome feedback on the new version of the catalogue from PC users and from mobile users.

ART IN THE GARDEN

ANGLES OF INCIDENCE 1 JUNE – 20 JULY

From June, visitors to the garden will be able to experience Angles of Incidence, a collaborative art installation by Singapore artist-architect Randy Chan and British artist Philippa Lawrence. These two artists were brought together through the Artist-in-Residence Exchange Programme (AiRx), a collaboration between the Singapore International Foundation and the British Arts Council. Angles of Incidence was first shown at the Singapore Botanical Gardens in January 2014 and will be on display in the garden until 20 July. The installation has also formed the inspiration for our Summer Party theme Singapore Sling on 10 July (details on page 6).

BOSWELL AND CHAUCER ROOMS

TOP FLOOR 3 DR JOHNSON'S BUILDING

Come and stay in one of our two beautifully decorated overnight accommodation rooms, the Boswell and Chaucer each have an en suite bathroom, comfortable bed and historic views waiting just for you.

They are available seven nights a week for only £140 per night, and are situated next to Temple Church.

GARDEN NEWS

OLIVER SELLS QC
MASTER OF THE GARDEN

A VIEW FROM THE WINDOW

Normally this page is the sole preserve of Andrea, the dedicated and talented Head Gardener; a space for her to tell us all her plans and her thoughts. I am able to view the changing seasons from my room at 5 Paper Buildings and I know that many other members of the Inn keep a keen eye on the goings on in the garden!

I know too how much her column is appreciated as is the work which she and her team of assistants and volunteers do all year round. She has been in charge for seven years now and the effect has been enormous.

Some gardeners talk of putting the garden to bed over the winter months... Not here!! Winter is a vital time for planting, restoration and tree work and we have a busy plan for each season. The subject of the trees is one which causes us a lot of thought, work and some anxiety. There are a growing number of diseases which afflict trees in England and we have a few vulnerable species. The line of London Plane Trees along the broad walk are fine and mature specimens but they are at real risk from both storms and disease. We may soon have to take some hard decisions as the essential pruning which we do for safety is having the effect of leaving a number of very long horizontal branches, creating “umbrella” trees.

On a happier note I can now report that the planners have given the green light to our long awaited scheme to make the pavement in front of the garden wider and more accessible and to realign the cars in front of the gate and the railing. I hope that the new emphasis on pedestrian ease of use will not only transform the entrance to the garden but may in time be followed in other parts of the Inn.

As I write this in mid-April we have enjoyed the mildest of winters and an early spring with some wonderful sunny days. A London garden is always at the mercy of the urban climate and poor soil so we must hope that sun and rain in the right proportions will enable the summer season to be enjoyed by all the many visitors. We have many plans for events so keep an eye on the diary and do come and join us.
