From the Treasurer

There was no Innterview in 1941 for the then Treasurer to assure the members of the Inn that it would keep calm and carry on despite the havoc wrought by the bombing of 11-12 May and the resultant gap where the Hall, Library and Treasury buildings had stood. But carry on the Inn did, even though it did not regain its Hall until 1955 and its Library not until 1957-58. In 2019, we are again temporarily without these key buildings but of havoc there is none. Inside an envelope of impressive scaffolding and a temporary roof, the work which is going on is planned, protected and precise. As the Library fittings have been temporarily dismantled to allow the construction of the new lecture theatre, teaching rooms and mingling spaces above, each individual shelf has been barcoded and its movements tracked by digital record, so that it can be put back exactly where it came from. From the door above the Benchers' entrance from Church Court we have recovered the marble Pegasus, carved in 1739 by the Dutch sculptor

Johannes Rysbrack for the medieval Hall. As the pictures here show, there had been a great deal of fire damage to it in the blitz. The building work provides the opportunity for its restoration. It will go back improved and more visible over the new main entrance, not after getting on for 15 years but after two.

In other words, the Inn is about the constant process of self-improvement. In the meantime it is fully open for business. The Library has brilliantly colonised and temporarily transformed an office building a stone's throw away at 10 Fetter Lane, and is keeping the same hours and providing the same service as before. The Treasury offices are close at hand in Mitre Court and King's Bench Walk. All the scheduled events in the calendar will take place, although re-located as shown on the website. Members might like to look out especially for Grand Night at Fishmongers' Hall on 6 November, for Benchers' Night on 17 October, and for the Mooting Masterclass and Reception on 28 October. We look forward to lectures (at The Law Society on Chancery Lane) by two very well-known experts: Professor Richard Susskind (Artificial Intelligence and the Law) on 7 October and Dr Audrey Giles (Forensic Document Examination – The Science Today) on 11 November, whilst on 4 November in the Temple Church, in the Social Context of the Law series, there will be a unique conversation on the British constitution between Master Jonathan Sumption and Professor Vernon Bogdanor. Meanwhile there is a high quality full musical programme organised by the Temple Music Foundation (Middle and Inner Temples), which includes Roger Sayer, the church organist, in recital with the jazz saxophonist Mark Lockheart (15 October), the renowned Sixteen singing the Monteverdi Vespers (19 November) and Handel's Messiah (9 December). If the cultural aspirations of members are not sufficiently sated, do not forget the Inn's Drama Society's pantomime at Bridewell Theatre (16-17 December); those who saw the society's members in a witty and original rendering of Much Ado About Nothing in the marquee in the summer will have some idea of what to expect.

Project Pegasus

Project update

The Project continues apace. The main tasks being undertaken are the erection of a scaffold roof to the building, the careful cataloguing and removal of the Library joinery to an off-site workshop for alteration and fire-proofing before eventual re-installation.

Also being undertaken is the construction of a 'bird-cage' scaffold in Hall which will allow the safe removal of the Hall ceiling, and the removal of the kitchen equipment to allow the upgrading of the wall and floor surfaces. More detailed information can be found on the information panels on the perimeter site hoarding which contain information about the project and directions to the temporary Library and the Inn's other offices.

The information panels contain a QR code, which can be scanned by appropriate software and link directly to the Project Pegasus web pages on the Inn's website.

The Sir Robert McAlpine Special Projects site team offices are based in the former Treasury Office. Access to these offices is from the South Terrace.

If you have any comments, concerns or questions about the construction activities you can contact John Walker at:
john.walker@srm.com
07866 783 710

The permitted site working hours are from:
8.00am to 6.00pm
Monday to Friday
9.00am to 2.00pm
Saturday (when required)

You can keep up to date with activities on site by signing up for the weekly construction update which gives a two week forward view of what is happening on site. You can sign up for this newsletter via the Inner Temple Project Pegasus webpages at innertemple.org.uk/project-pegasus

Inner Temple Champions to help with the Inn's first survey of established barristers

As reported in the last Innerview, UCL Laws professor and Inner Temple Bencher, Professor Cheryl Thomas QC, has been appointed as the first Dean of Inner Temple to help drive educational innovation at the Inn. As Dean of Education, one of Professor Thomas's main projects is to help Inner Temple create a new lifelong learning programme for the Inn's established barristers.

Master Levitt, Chair of the Education and Training Committee, said: "The appointment of our first Dean of Education demonstrates Inner Temple's commitment to putting education and training at the heart of our Inn. We want the Inn to be every barrister's professional family from the day they qualify for the rest of their lives. We see it as the Inn's role to offer support and assistance with the things which really matter to our members for the whole of their careers."

In January 2020, the Inn will take a major step towards achieving this objective when it launches the first ever Established Barrister Survey under the supervision of Professor Thomas. The aim of the survey is to help the Inn better understand the needs of those who are in practice beyond the new practitioner stage. This will enable the Inn to design a challenging and inspiring programme that every established advocate at the Inn will feel they need and want to experience.

Making the Inn relevant for all members

According to Professor Thomas, "For most members, the Inn played an important role in their professional development as barristers in the start of their career, and the Inn has an outstanding and extensive programme of education and training for students, pupils and new practitioners in their first three years of practice. But the vast majority of Inn members are established barristers beyond their first three years of practice, and many of these members perhaps do not necessarily see the Inn as so relevant to their current practice as it was when they were starting out."

As Dean, my aim is to help the Inn develop new and innovative programmes to attract more experienced barristers back to the Inn, and thereby create a more modern and progressive role for Inner Temple as a professional body for all its barristers. But to do this we need to better understand what the working lives of established members are like today and how the Inn can better meet their needs."

First Inner Temple Established Barrister Survey

One of the Dean's first projects is the Inner Temple Established Barrister Survey. The aim of the Survey is to help the Inn better understand the needs of those who are now established in practice beyond the new practitioner stage. This will enable the Inn to design a challenging and inspiring programme that every established advocate at the Inn will feel they need and want to experience.

Professor Thomas already has extensive experience running such a legal professional survey. Since 2014, she has run the recurring UK Judicial Attitude Survey on behalf of the judiciaries of England and Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland to better understand the working lives and needs of judges in the courts and tribunals.

Inner Temple's Education and Training Committee has convened a Working Group to assist Professor Thomas with the survey, drawing on its members' expertise across a range of practice areas and issues for the Bar. Professor Thomas is a member of the working group along with Master Raquel Agnello QC who chairs the Working Group, Master Martin Griffiths QC, Master Michael Stevenson, Master Rachel Spearing, Zachary Bredemear and Saoirse Cowley.

The Established Practitioners Survey will provide the information the Inn needs to develop strategies and plans in order to bring the best out of every barrister and to develop a cadre of high-performing barristers who will raise standards at all levels of the profession.

Could you be one of Inner Temple's new Champions in 2020?

This term Professor Thomas and the Working Group will be contacting Inner Temple members to see if they would be willing to act as Inner Temple Champions. These champions will be an important link between the Inn and chambers, circuits and specialist Bar associations. The role of the Champions will be to ensure that as many members of the Inn as possible know about the Inner Temple Established Barristers Survey, are encouraged to take part and understand how the survey will lead to benefits for them in the coming years.

Master Agnello explained that, "you don't have to be an Inner Temple Champion to be involved in the Inn's many activities. But we are aiming to create a network of established members of the Inn who would be willing to help spread the survey message to other Inn members in their chambers or employers, on their Circuit or in their specialist Bar associations."

Anyone interested in being an Inner Temple Champion is also welcome to contact Professor Thomas directly at deanofeducation@innertemple.org.uk

Education & Training

A letter on the Mentoring Scheme

Alison Levitt QC, Master of Mentoring Scheme

There is probably not a single barrister who did not have some help at the beginning of their career. Many of us have cause truly to be grateful to senior members of the Bar who gave unselfishly of their time and experience to help us fill in forms, practise for interviews or just made themselves available to answer questions. Some of us believe that without this help we might never have had the confidence to persevere. Some of us received this help because we were lucky enough to have connections at the Bar.

We want to make sure that in the twenty-first century, every Bar student who wants it, regardless of background, should be given the help and support in their student year that we were so lucky to have.

As some of you may know the Inner Temple offers our students the opportunity to have a mentor during their BPTC year. The purpose of this article is to try to persuade those of you who have never been a mentor to give it a try. Every year we receive far more requests by students to have a mentor than we are able to meet. As an Inn committed to providing our students with the best support available, we are asking all those who have a bit of time spare - and even those who have no spare time - to offer support and guidance to a student.

Being a mentor is hugely rewarding: you watch a fledgling barrister develop and grow throughout the BPTC year. It is a rather wonderful experience to pass on some of the things you learned from others and, by doing so, see how you can make an enormous difference. You feel an enormous sense of pride when they are Called.

Those of us who do advocacy training know that the teachers benefit as well as the students. Mentoring is like that too. It is also a wonderful opportunity for reverse monitoring, an invaluable way to keep in touch with the experiences of those just starting out in this great profession.

This year we are going to enhance our mentoring scheme by offering protected characteristic and social-mobility matching. If you are, for example, from an under-represented group and would like to support someone from the same group, you will be able to select this on the sign-up form.

The amount of contact that you have with your assigned student is entirely up to you. Examples of the kind of support you might like to offer include telephone calls, meetings in person, offering advice by email. You can attend Inn events with the student (there is a special dinner for mentors and their mentees), review the student's application forms, take them to court.

The Inner Temple offers mentoring throughout England and Wales and we try to pair mentors and students both by location and area of legal interest. For this reason, we are keen to increase the number of mentors on the Circuits.

Mentoring is open to anyone who has been in practice for at least three years, in any area of law.

If this is something with which you would like to be involved, please contact Georgina Everatt for further information or to be sent the link to our sign-up form.

Student training and support

We are looking forward to welcoming our new BPTC student members to the Inn at Introductory events in September and October. Students will be given information on the Inn's qualifying sessions, which will include expert lectures, advocacy training, student residential conferences and presentational skills sessions, all designed to complement students' BPTC training and allow students to meet and learn from practising barristers and judges.

This year's student residential conferences will focus on the following topics:

Hate Speech

Cumberland Lodge, December 2019

Transgender Law in Practice

Highgate House, February 2020

Employment Law

Highgate House, May 2020

Our new students will also receive details on the support schemes we offer, including marshalling, mentoring, mock interviews and police liaison. They will also hear from the Presidents of the four student-run Inner Temple Societies (ITSA, Mooting, Debating and Drama) about how they can become involved in the Societies' activities.

The Education & Training Department would like to take this opportunity to welcome our new BPTC students – we look forward to working with you this year and in the future.

Question & Answer Day

The Inn's annual Question & Answer Day for students interested in a career at the Bar took place on Sunday 23 June. The day was a huge success, with students attending from a wide range of universities and many of the Inn's PASS participants in attendance. In addition, AS and A Level students were also invited to attend. The day was opened by Deputy Senior District Judge Ikram, who provided a detailed and useful view of the challenges and opportunities available at the Bar and the role of the Inns of Court. The event provided an insight into different areas of practice and life as a junior practitioner, as well as being an opportunity for students to gain valuable advice on pupillage applications, CVs and interviews. This was followed by a reception, during which students met and spoke informally with members of the Inn. Thanks go to all the members of the Bar who volunteered at this event.

Insight Evenings

The Education and Training Department are hosting a series of Insight evenings on becoming a barrister and life at the Bar. The evenings are specifically to inform Year 12 and 13 students, university students and graduates. We have expanded our Insight events programme and are visiting more cities around the country. The evenings include a panel session followed by a drinks reception and will be from 6pm to 8.30pm. Typically panelists talk for five to ten minutes on their professional life and route to the Bar and then questions are fielded from students. This part of the evening lasts for about one hour followed by a reception.

If you are based in Manchester, London, Sheffield, Leeds, York, Kent, Lancaster, Sussex, Bristol or Coventry and would like to volunteer your time either as panelist, or at the reception to speak to students', please contact Edwina Koroma.

Education & Training

Get involved with Outreach!

The Inn's outreach programme would not be possible without the support of the many members who give up their time to volunteer at events. The Inn needs your support with the following activities, if you would like to be involved in the Inn's outreach work, please contact outreach@innertemple.org.uk

Police Liaison Scheme

The Police Liaison Scheme aims to promote good relations between the Bar and the Police Service. The scheme allows BPTC students to visit police stations in one of four participating London boroughs and to accompany officers on patrol or in the CID Department. The scheme has helped many students interested in a career at the Criminal Bar to become familiar with police station procedures and the ways in which incidents are dealt with. Visits will be arranged throughout the academic year.

The scheme is a reciprocal one, with further events organised to give police officers a greater understanding of the work of barristers and judges. This includes a mock trial each year.

If you are interested in helping or in finding out more about the scheme, please contact Daisy Mortimer.

Act as a witness in Advocacy Training

The Education & Training Team will shortly be recruiting BPTC students to act as witnesses in our mock trials for pupils. As well as gaining a qualifying session (when attending two separate mock trials), this is a great opportunity to take part in the Inn's advocacy training programme for pupils.

The mock trials will take place over four evenings in the last two weeks of November and will all be held in real courtrooms at the Royal Courts of Justice, from 5.30pm to 7.30pm. Further sessions will be available in February 2020.

Students will be able to book for these dates via innertemple.org.uk/events. For further information, please contact Richard Loveridge or David Miller.

Mentoring Scheme

The Mentoring Scheme aims to provide students with advice, guidance and a point of contact during their initial stages of becoming a barrister. Mentors are allocated at the beginning of the academic year and demand is always very high. This year is no exception, so we are in need of more volunteers. If you are a barrister of five years' Call or more and would like to help or would like some further information, please contact Georgina Everatt.

Marshalling Scheme

The Marshalling Scheme is run for the benefit of current BPTC students. Feedback from the students has shown that it has helped to increase their understanding of the judicial system and provide them with a new perspective on being both a barrister and a judge. Marshalling placements are allocated throughout the year and it is always a popular scheme for the students. As always, we would welcome interest from judges around the country to help increase the number of opportunities we can provide for the Inn's newest members. If you are a judge and would be willing to have a student sit with you for one to five days, or if you would like further information on the scheme, please contact Richard Loveridge.

Mock Interview Scheme

The Mock Interview Scheme gives students a chance to refine their interview technique before they undertake a 'real' pupillage interview. The mock interview takes place with an established barrister and in a practice area that the candidate is looking to gain pupillage in. The scheme is valued highly by our student members and consistently receives positive feedback. We are looking to increase the number of volunteers for the scheme, particularly in the areas of Family, Immigration and Public Law, before the commencement of the pupillage interview season. The time commitment is flexible but typically amounts to around 1–3 hours per year. If you would like to volunteer for the scheme, please contact Edwina Koroma.

Pegasus Scholarships

Applications for the 2019 Pegasus Scholarships will open in early October and the closing date is 29 November 2019. Scholarships are available to tenants or employed barristers (of all four Inns) who have practised as a barrister for up to five years (not including pupillage). This is an opportunity to spend six to twelve weeks in another jurisdiction, seeing how its legal system works as well as making new friends and (possibly) escaping the worst of the British weather. To complete the application form, please go to innertemple.org.uk/pegasustrust

This summer, we welcomed six incoming overseas scholars who had just completed LLM degrees at the University of Cambridge and three Scholars from New Zealand. The scholars worked in various chambers and visited the Royal Courts of Justice, the Old Bailey and the Supreme Court.

The Pegasus Scholarship Trust is grateful to all the chambers that support the Trust by hosting scholars for our spring, summer or autumn placements each year. If you or your chambers would be interested in hosting a scholar please contact the Trust's Secretary, Sellisha Lockyer.

BROADEN YOUR HORIZONS

The Pegasus Scholarship Trust forges links between lawyers of the future around the world

OUTGOING SCHOLARSHIPS

We offer placements across a variety of disciplines to countries such as America, Australia, Bermuda, Hong Kong, New Zealand, Singapore and Dubai, as well as supporting candidates who can arrange their own placements.

We accept applications from tenants and employed barristers of under five years' practice (excluding pupillage) who belong to any of the four Inns.

Applications close on 30 November, with interviews in January.

HOST A SCHOLAR

We connect international lawyers with leading Barrister's Chambers in London.

Chambers host lawyers from all over the world, India, America New Zealand and 6 international students undertaking an LLM at Cambridge University. The Trust is reliant on Chambers hosting these lawyers for a period between 1 – 4 weeks.

Support the Pegasus Trust – give an International Lawyer exposure to the English and Welsh Judicial System and support international links.

Calling all Pupils!

The first of the Inn's compulsory advocacy courses for pupils will begin in October 2019. If you have not yet registered your pupillage with the BSB (and sent a copy of your form to the Inn), please contact David Miller as soon as possible. Even if you are not due to start pupillage until spring 2020, you must still attend an advocacy course before the start of your second six, so please register your details as soon as possible. Failure to do so could result in your not being issued with a practising certificate.

The Practice Management Course will be held on Saturday 11 January 2020 at King's College London. This course is also compulsory, and information will be sent to pupils at the same time as the advocacy course dates.

Jewels of the Garden

Sean Harkin Head Gardener

In the summer of 2010, I was lucky enough to take part in an exchange from Wisley to the sub-tropical Abbey Gardens on Tresco. On boarding the helicopter to the paradise island, I couldn't help but feel that I was getting the better side of the deal, as my counterpart was travelling the other way! The climate at Tresco is very favourable with tender plants growing unprotected from South Africa, the Canary Islands and New Zealand. At the end of the exchange, the Tresco gardeners kindly gave me some small pieces of Aeoniums to remember my time with them. This succulent branching rosette-forming plant from the Canary Islands remarkably self-seeds across the island. Ever since then I have had a love of succulents. There is such a wide variety of forms and I don't think any garden is complete without them.

Since taking over the team I had in my mind to start to build a succulent collection for the Inner Temple. With our increasingly extreme temperatures, it also fits with looking at ways to minimise water usage, especially in pots. The word succulent is derived from the Latin word sucus, meaning juice or sap. These plants have adapted to dry, arid conditions with leaves, stem or roots developing water-storing tissue and so becoming fleshy in appearance. Cacti, though often thought of separately, are actually a form of succulent. Another adaptation to conserve water is known as the crassulacean acid metabolism (CAM), a type of photosynthesis which allows plants to fix carbon dioxide during the night via opening their stomata, rather than during the day. This process helps to prevent evaporation. These tough and adaptable plants remind me of jewels adding contrast in their shapes, form and texture to the Garden.

Aeonium 'Zwartkop'

This summer we started to build our collection, placing terracotta bowls, pans and pots filled at our hottest spots, where other less resilient choices would have flagged during some of the hottest days we experienced in late July. I feel there is something about the proportions that make almost any plant look favourable when planted in a terracotta bowl or pan. I especially enjoy the Echeverias, with their low mound forming rosettes, hailing from semi desert areas of Mexico and Central America. There are many different cultivars with special features which we will add to the collection over the coming years. To start, as we have, I would recommend Echeveria elegans, Echeveria affinis and cultivars such as 'Black Prince'. I would also recommend starting with Crassula ovata, the money plant, hailing from South Africa growing into a branching almost bonsai tree, thought to bring good fortune.

In terms of care, succulents can go without water for some time during the summer though do also enjoy a drink during the growing season. They are often harder than most would give them credit for, especially if kept dry over winter. They do not like excessive wet in winter. For my personal collection of succulents, I often leave them outside all winter, even when I was in Manchester. I place the pots against a wall to give some protection and cover with a sheet of Perspex leaning against the wall. At the Inner Temple, depending on the weather we will take them into our cold frames and small greenhouse around late November, in time for when we want to dress the Garden for Christmas. The darker forms can lose their colour if not given enough light, and so over winter this can be the case. All plants grown in pots can be susceptible to vine weevil and this is true of succulents. The damage comes from the grub eating the roots of the plant. For this we treat our pots with a bio control drench of a nematode (Steinernema kraussei) which parasites the grub. This comes in the post and needs to be used straight away or placed in the fridge. We apply this in August and September. This protects our collection, which I look forward to building further in the years to come and remembering my magical time in Tresco.

COIC Match Funding

Nathalie Lieven QC
Chair, COIC Pupillage
Matched Funding
Grants Committee

COIC welcomes applications for matched funding for 2020-21 and 2021-22 pupillages

The COIC Pupillage Matched Funded Scheme (PMF) helps provide additional pupillages in Chambers, and other approved training organisations, predominantly engaged in legally aided work. Encouragingly, a growing number of Chambers are applying for COIC matched funded grants. COIC is set to support 36 pupillages in 2019. This is an impressive improvement on the scheme's first year of operation in 2014, when it supported 14 pupillages.

How the scheme works

It is a prerequisite of the scheme that chambers understand that matched funded pupillages are in addition to those they would have offered in any event. COIC match pupillage funding already provided by chambers with a total grant of £9,000 for 2020-21 London pupillages and £7,700 for 2020-21 out of London pupillages and, £9,450 for 2021-22 London pupillages and £8,050 for 2021-22 out of London pupillages, to fund the first six months of a second pupillage. Chambers are responsible for ensuring that the total pupillage award meets the BSB's minimum award for the year in question.

How to apply

Applications to match fund 2020-21 and 2021-22 pupillages are invited between 2 September and 21 October 2019. Decisions will be communicated during the week commencing 4 November 2019. Online applications can be made at www.coic.org.uk/pupillage-matched-funding.

Park Square Barristers

Pupils are the future of the profession and vital to the survival of the independent Bar. PSQB has received matched funding which has allowed us to recruit three additional pupils since 2017. As a set dedicated to publicly funded work the scheme has been vital in allowing us to grow our numbers, maintain exceptional standards and secure a bright future for Chambers. This has all been achieved, in an era of continued uncertainty and cuts, with no additional budgetary pressures for our set.

Simon Clegg, Director of Pupillage

Chartlands Chambers

We are a small provincial set predominantly with a focus on family law. We have always been dedicated to undertaking publicly funded work. With the cuts in legal aid, we were not in a position to take on two pupils in 2019 without the COIC pupillage match funded grant. The grant was an invaluable help to us in ensuring we continue to build on our commitment in providing barristers to assist publicly funded clients. The initiative is very commendable and will go a long way in opening up the availability of pupillages to those who deserve the same. We are grateful for this positive initiative during difficult economic times.

Waqas Rashid, Head of Pupillage

Central Chambers

As a small, mainly publicly-funded set the financial aspects of offering pupillage were an obvious concern when we were considering the ways in which chambers should grow but the Pupillage Matched Funding Scheme allowed us to take a chance on pupillage and, with the support of the Inns of Court, we have been able to offer this opportunity in a very restricted market.

Thanks to the Pupillage Matched Funding Scheme, we can offer a further three pupillages over the next 18 months; opportunities for recent graduates that simply would not have been there without this scheme.

At a time when access to the profession is of great concern to chambers, the scheme helps small, specialist sets like ours to offer pupillage in areas being deserted by those solely searching for financial gain rather than a drive to help the disadvantaged.

Joe Lynch, Head of Pupillage

Judges and Diplomats at The Inner Temple

Greg Dorey CVO

Greg Dorey, former British Ambassador to Hungary and Ethiopia and now Sub-Treasurer of The Inner Temple, will examine the lives of Inner Temple members from the mid-sixteenth century to the mid-twentieth century who went on to become diplomats. Their skills, which also included operating as writers, negotiators, adventurers, military personnel and politicians were honed at

The Inner Temple, which was once considered the third University and functioned as a finishing school for the sons of gentlemen where courtly skills were practised alongside a legal education. The biographies of these fascinating polymaths will be examined, along with the changing requirements of both Bar and diplomatic corps.

International News

International Legal Assistance Consortium

A reception was held in the Temple Church on 30 May for the International Legal Assistance Consortium on the occasion of their AGM in London. The consortium works to assess the needs of the justice sector in conflict-affected and fragile countries and helps strengthen the independence and resilience of justice sector institutions and legal professions.

The event was attended by high profile guests, including international Bar and law association leaders. The Sub-Treasurer gave a short welcoming address and introduced Elizabeth Howe OBE, the President of ILAC. Lizzette Robleto de Howarth, Inner Temple member and International Programmes Manager for The Law Society, was instrumental in organising the reception.

Geoffrey Nice Foundation Masterclass

The annual Geoffrey Nice Foundation Masterclass, partly sponsored by Inner Temple, took place at the Inter-University Centre at Dubrovnik, Croatia, from 1-12 July. This year, the foundation worked in partnership with the Transitional Justice Working Group (Seoul, South Korea) for a course entitled Mapping, Documenting and Prosecuting Mass Atrocities. Participants examined the applications and methodologies of mapping and documenting in International Criminal Justice and undertook case studies on Cambodia, ex-Yugoslavia, Iran, North Korea, Myanmar, Vietnam and Syria.

Jack Barber, Chloe Branton, Alexander du Sautoy and Melanie Waite were sponsored to attend the Masterclass on behalf of the Inn, following a selection process which reviewed in detail over 40 applications from students and members up to three years' Call.

International Training

The Inn and The Law Society held a roundtable discussion on 11 July with representatives from the Brazilian and Argentine Embassies in London on opportunities for international training. Presentations were given on The Law Society's Rule of Law Programmes and on the assistance available from the Inn for training for overseas judiciaries, legal bodies and authorities to facilitate capacity building/development by sharing best practice, skills, knowledge and experiences; learning from others; and creating strong bilateral relationships in order to improve and develop global legal learning and services and promote the Rule of Law.

Further information on international training is available on innertemple.org.uk/international.

Mohandas Karamachand Gandhi Remembering Gandhi, the Lawyer

Celia Pilkington, Archivist

In June, the archivist was approached by Mr Anish Dayal, Counsel & Arbitration Attorney at the Supreme Court of India and the Delhi High Court, to assist with information for the Quarterly Bar Review, a journal edited by him and published by the Delhi High Court Bar Association. He wished to use their third edition to celebrate the life of Gandhi, India's most famous lawyer and political ethicist, using a combination of articles and original archive sources which are reproduced in the journal. An exhibition Remembering Gandhi, the Lawyer was also held at the Delhi High Court. In both, copies of the Inn's own documents were reproduced.

The journal and the exhibition reveal how integral his early legal training at the Inner Temple was to his lifelong battle against injustice, a training that was noticed by others such as Sir Stafford Cripps who commented, "he was no simple mystic, combined with a religious outlook was his lawyer-trained mind, quick and apt in reasoning. He was a formidable opponent in argument." These skills were honed here in London at the Inner Temple where others on a similar path, such as Tunku Abdul Rahman, the founder of modern Malaysia and Seretse Khama, the first President of Bechuanaland (Botswana), also spent formative years. Skills, which as his biographer Charles R DiSalvo remarks, include:

"...leadership skills and with a unique set of professional competencies. We know how to think, speak and act in public. We are generally good writers. We know how to organise and motivate people. We understand government. Above all, once we have a little experience, we possess an uncommon sense for how societal change takes place - and how community leaders can play a role in that process of change."

Gandhi's practice eventually led him to give up his practice and to support movements of Indian citizens' rights in South Africa and the freedom movement in India. His guiding standard was informed by the belief in the existence of the moral principles that should be followed in all human affairs, and that no matter how powerful the state it should not enact unjust laws.

Gandhi wrote of this:

"I had learnt the true practice of law. I had learnt to find out the better side of human nature and to enter men's hearts. I realised that the true function of a lawyer was to unite parties riven asunder. The lesson was so indelibly burnt into me that a large part of my time during the twenty years of my practice as a lawyer was occupied in bringing about private compromises of hundreds of cases. I lost nothing, thereby not even money, certainly not my soul."

The Inner Temple also celebrates these principles and the life of Gandhi on this 150th anniversary of his birth and is pleased to announce that a digital copy of the journal will soon be available on our website.

Anish Dayal presenting copies of the Delhi High Court Bar Association's commemorative Quarterly Bar Review to Henrietta Amodio (Director of Treasury Office), Celia Pilkington (Archivist) and Jennie Collis Price (EA to the Sub-Treasurer).

Wellness for Law

Wellness for Law Forum 2019

21 June

The annual Wellness for Law Forum took place on 21 June on the topic of Trauma Risk Management (TRiM) for Law. The one-day CPD event was conceived and led by Master Rachel Spearing, Master of Wellbeing, and was hosted at University College London with the assistance of Master Cheryl Thomas, the Inn's Dean of Education. After an opening address by the Sub-Treasurer, the programme featured a keynote presentation from Sir Andrew McFarlane, President of the Family Division, as well as talks on TRiM in practise from the CPS, the Police and the Military. A number of sets of chambers who have been awarded a Wellbeing at the Bar Certificates of Recognition in respect of work to promote wellbeing for barristers and staff spoke about practical applications and best practice, and a further session was held on inclusivity and wellbeing for LGBTQ+ members of the profession.

MACMILLAN
CANCER SUPPORT

22 January 2020
London and the Reformation

Dr Susan Brigden

This illustrated lecture will study the religious and social world of a community transformed by the Reformation. Londoners had once been bound by a traditional faith, as citizens worshipped together in their hundred parish churches, but they became divided by religion as successive monarchs – Henry VIII, Edward VI and Mary – demanded new allegiances. In London the new evangelical faith was most fervently proselytized, but also most fiercely resisted. From London's pulpits the royal supremacy was declared and the Pope denounced, and on London's scaffolds the Pope's defenders were destroyed. Thirty-nine religious houses were dissolved. More heretics went to the flames in the City than in any other place in England. In this period of exceptional volatility and religious turmoil, citizens were forced to choose between true and false images, between private faith and public conformity. The destroying spirit of iconoclasm annihilated so much in the Reformation century – the painted windows, the treasured images of saints, the shrines and tabernacles, the illuminated primers – but some remain to allow a vision of a religious world which was lost.

David Briggs organ

The soundtrack to any film adds a unique dimension that touches us emotionally and enhances the story. Gaston Leroux's novel The Phantom of the Opera has been adapted many times, but this 1925 film is thought by many to be the finest and most faithful to the original story. Acclaimed organist David Briggs, renowned for his improvised film accompaniments, will add his own musical interpretation to this silent horror film.

"David's playing matched the film perfectly with just the right amount of humour for a modern-day audience looking at silent film from yesteryear." Simon Williams, Director of Music, St George's, Hanover Square Handel's Messiah needs no introduction; it is undoubtedly one of the best known and most performed choral works. Yet, however many times you may have heard it, it never ceases to inspire, stir emotion and confirm the arrival of the festive season.

"Even in this golden age of 'early music' sopranos, Grace Davidson is outstanding for her seraphic purity and evenness of tone." Gramophone
